NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Manufactured News Relative to the British Minister—The War Movements in Europe—The Indian Troubles—Nicaraguan Affairs, &c.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Friday, May 27.

The dispatch from this city, stating that Sir WILLIAM GORE OUSELEY had written a letter to our Government explaining why he had violated the instructions of his own, is not only absurd but wholly without any foundation in truth. No such letter has been received here by Lord LYONS. Equally unfounded is the report, from the same source, that Lord LYONS had expressed the opinion that the British Minister in Mexico would recognize the Juarez Government. His Lordship, I have reason to believe, has expressed no opinion on the subject, nor has he received any information justifying the forming of one.

Dispatches received at several of the foreign legations here account for the strange movements of the Austrian troops. The Austrian General condemning the plan of the campaign adopted, Austria determined to withdraw all her troops again within her own territory and remodel the programme. At a diplomatic dinner given by the Secretary of State yesterday, this view of the singular fact was concurred in by all present.

Letters from Lord NAPIER report himself and family at Lady JULIA LOCKWOOD'S, the mother of Lady NAPIER, in Devonshire. They reached England in eighteen days, after a delightful voyage.

Official dispatches to the Indian Bureau report serious troubles with the Indians surrounding some of the reservations. The new Superintendent for the Pacific had not arrived out, being detained on the Isthmus.

No dispatch had been received up to this afternoon from Nicaragua, either by the State Department or by General JEREZ. Private letters received by the latter state that the Belly contract was approved only after Congress had made all the changes they desired. Official dispatches are expected by to-night's mail. General JEREZ leaves on the steamer of the 5th June for Nicaragua. Q.

[FROM THE REPORTER FOR THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

WASHINGTON, Friday, May 27.

The Presidents of several of the Railroad companies whose lines extend from Weldon to Charleston, together with the President of the Fernandina Railroad Company, are now here on business relative to the Great Southern Mail; their object being to enter into arrangements with the Post-office Department for transporting it more expeditiously, especially between New-Orleans and New-York, avoiding the failures which are now so frequent.

It has been stated that Lord LYONS is of opinion that the British Minister in Mexico will soon, if he has not done so already, recognize the Juarez Government, and that it is understood he has instructions to that effect, but there is no foundation for this statement, as it is reliably ascertained that Lord LYONS has no information respecting the intentions of Her Majesty's Government with regard to the contending parties in Mexico, and has expressed no opinion on the subject.

Arrival of the Overland Mail.

INDIAN DISTURBANCES ALONG THE ROUTE—MURDER OF MEXICANS BY AMERICANS.

From the St. Louis Democrat.

The Overland Mail which left San Francisco on the 2d inst., arrived last night.

Mr. R. S. WEED came through from San Francisco by the mail, and Mr. WM. MCGROOTY from Fort Fillmore.

By the former we learn some news which may not be uninteresting to our readers.

Mr. WEED informs us that the excitement on the border of Sonora and Arizona continued. It will be remembered that the Mexicans expelled several Americans from Sonora on account of alleged fillibustering.

In addition to outrages formerly published, it was reported at Tucson on the 11th inst., that three Mexican traders who had crossed the line with a band of pack mules bound to California, had been killed by Americans. A company from Fort Buchanan had been dispatched to the scene where the murder is said to have been committed. The difficulties all arise from the fear of the Sonorians that a fillibuster expedition is about to enter their territory.

The Gila "gold diggins" have about dried up. Several miners came from Gila City to Tucson by this mail. About 75 miners still remain, but would gladly leave had they the means to do so. It was stated that an agent of WALKER'S had been among the disappointed miners enrolling volunteers for an expected fillibuster movement, whether for Sonora or not is unknown.

At Apache Pass the Indians were expected every day on their return from a cattle-stealing expedition, into Sonora. Some 300 warriors had left previously and sent carriers forward for provisions, who arrived at Apache Pass on the 10th, bringing with them a Mexican Boy about 14 years of age as prisoner. This boy was about to be killed, when the Overland Mail Company's Agent ransomed him for 12 sacks of corn. The Indians at the station near the Pass had been very defiant and troublesome, and a request had been made by the station-keeper for a half a dozen soldiers to assist in protecting the property. A party of whites were recently interrupted in cutting wood, by the Indians, and prevented by force from carrying it to the stations.

The trip from San Francisco to El Paso was made in ten days thirteen hours and ten minutes; and from El Paso to St. Louis in eleven days nineteen hours and thirty minutes, having been delayed by the storm at Fort Smith some twelve hours.

Mr. MCGROOTY reports that Company C Mounted Rifles, under command of Lieuts. HULL and MCNEILL, had been ordered on the trail of some Indians who had stolen from Mr. ANASTACIS ASCAROTE, about two and a half miles from Fort Fillmore, thirty-three head of brood mares. The robbery occurred on the evening of the 12th. The Indians have been very troublesome of late in the vicinity of Fort Fillmore.

NEW-JERSEY PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL CONVENTION

The Rev. Wm. H. Odenheimer, of Philadelphia, elected Bishop, on the Thirteenth Ballot.

THE INCOME OF THE BISHOP—TREASURER'S REPORT—SKETCH OF DR. ODENHEIMER—DELEGATES TO THE GENERAL CONVENTION—FINAL ADJOURNMENT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

BURLINGTON, N. J., Friday, May 27, 1859.

Apparently, this morning, the Convention was as far from the election of a Bishop as it was when it commenced balloting at 2 P. M., yesterday. When the Convention adjourned, at 11 o'clock last evening, ten unsuccessful ballots had been had. Immediately after the tenth ballot Dr. L. S. COMSTOCK, of Fort Lee, moved that a committee of conference be appointed to present some name which could be united on by all parties, and communicate it privately to the members of the Convention before the opening of the morning session.

CORTLANDT PARKER, Esq., said that if ever he had prayed fervently in his life, it was when he joined with the Convention in silent prayer before they proceeded to the election. The laity had expressed, with a strong voice, their preference for a gentleman who had no superior, and hardly a peer. Although he represented a Church which expected to pay one-fifteenth part of the expenses of the Diocese, yet there was every disposition on his part to acquiesce in any choice which the Convention, under God, should make. He hoped that the voice of the laity would be hearkened to.

Mr. PARKER, in the midst of his speech, was called to order by Judge OGDEN, of Elizabeth, on the ground that any discussion of the character of a candidate was clearly out of order under the rules which had been adopted. Mr. PARKER finished a sentence in which the character of the candidate whom he supported was commended, and then sat down.

The Convention immediately adjourned.

This morning, at 9 o'clock, prayers were said in St. Mary's Church, and, half an hour after, the President called the Convention to order in the Chapel.

Dr. COMSTOCK withdrew his motion in favor of a Committee of Conference, and the Convention proceeded to the

The Convention here, at 11½ A. M., took a recess till noon.

During the recess the supporters of the Rev. Dr MAHAN met in conference, the Rev. Mr. FINCH presiding. It was exclusively an assemblage of the High Church Party.

The Rev. Dr. MAHAN begged his friends to allow him to withdraw his name from before the Convention, as he had for some time desired to do. This was finally agreed to, and it was proposed successively that the Rev. Dr. MORGAN DIX, of Trinity Church, New-York City; the Rev. Dr. TUCKER, of Troy, N. Y.; the Rev. Dr. KERFUT, of Maryland, and the Rev. Dr. COX, of Maryland, be put forward as the candidates of the High Church Party. Each of these seemed to have an equal number of supporters, who put their claims fully before the Conference. After considerable discussion it was agreed that the Rev. Dr. ODENHEIMER, the candidate who, next to Drs. MAHAN and LITTLEJOHN, had received the largest number of votes on the last ballots, should be supported by the friends of Dr. MAHAN.

As soon as the members of the Convention reassembled, the Rev. Dr. MAHAN rose and said that before proceeding to a new ballot, he begged leave to make one or two remarks which were called for at this moment. On the occurrence of the melancholy event which had deprived them of the beloved head of this Diocese, the first thought that had presented itself to his mind related to the best manner in which the place left vacant might be filled, and a resolution was formed in his mind that whatever might seem, on the whole, to be the best plan for reconciling all interests and securing unanimity, he would give his whole heart and soul to. Peculiar circumstances had surrounded him, which had made it improper for him to take an active part in the choice of a Bishop. Those circumstances no longer existed, and now he was left at liberty to act on his own impulses. He desired, therefore, to withdraw his name as a candidate for the vacant office. He would say something further if it were not contrary to the rule of order which forbid the discussion of the character of the candidates. He would only say that of the names which were before the Convention on the last ballot there was one that he could vote for heartily, and which he sincerely desired would receive the votes of the Convention.

The Rev. JAMES J. BOWDEN, of Jersey City, said that he desired that there should be no misunderstanding of the motives by which those who were personal friends of Dr. MAHAN, but had voted against him, had acted. He was one of those who had known Dr. MAHAN almost from his boyhood, and had always esteemed him very highly, but he had felt constrained to vote against him. He had been moved simply by this motive: A desire to elect some gentleman who had had no connection with former matters in this diocese. Had it not been for that, he believed that Dr. MAHAN would have received strong support from quarters in which he had been opposed. He felt that it was due to himself, and those with whom he acted, to make this statement. He had come to this Convention desiring without prejudice to select a man, under the guidance of the Holy Spirit, around whom all could rally.

The next ballot decided the matter; as soon as it had proceeded far enough to indicate what the result would be, the excitement which had kept all silent began to manifest itself in a confused hum, half the members of the Convention were standing, and the President was compelled to call them to order before the announcement of the result of the

The Rev. Dr. WILLIAMSON, the President, immediately declared that the Rev. WM. HENRY ODENHEIMER, D. D. was Bishop elect of New-Jersey.

The Rev. Dr. MAHAN moved that his election be declared unanimous. It was carried unanimously.

The Rev. Dr. E. A. HOFFMAN moved that a Committee of three clergymen and two laymen be appointed to wait on the Bishop elect and inform him of his election. The motion was carried and the following Committee was appointed: The Rev. Dr. Mahan, the Rev. Dr. Hoffman, and the Rev. Dr. Garrison, of the clergy; Abraham Browning, Esq., and Richard S. Field, Esq., of the laity.

The Rev. Mr. DUNN said they had now elected a Bishop of the Diocese. It would be remembered that the Reverend Father who had been taken from among them had died on this day of the month, and at about this hour, 12½ o'clock. He moved, therefore, that they unite in singing the Gloria in excelsis.

The members of the Convention immediately arose, and, with the accompaniment of female voices in the gallery, sang the anthem.

The Rev. Dr. MAHAN offered the customary resolution directing the Standing Committee of the Diocese to take the necessary measures for the consecration of the new Bishop, and

The Rev. Dr. HOFFMAN offered a resolution directing that the testimonials in regard to the election of Bishop ODENHEIMER be signed by the clergy of the Convention.

Both resolutions were carried.

The clergy, as their names were called, came forward and signed the testimonials. Judge OGDEN said they had elected a Bishop, but had not provided for his support. The Bishop's Fund,—composed of annual contributions from the different parishes, invested in real estate and the interest paid to the Bishop yearly,—amounted to $13,000 in round numbers, and would be available in money and good securities on the 25th of July next. He desired to suggest that the amount of the Bishop's salary should be determined before the Convention adjourned, or the new Bishop would not be placed in a proper position with regard to accepting or declining the position. The Rev. Mr. SHERMAN, of Belleville, read the canons which fix the income of the Bishop. They declare that he shall receive $2,400 per annum, and $5 for every visitation to a parish for traveling expenses. According to these provisions, Mr. SHERMAN said, if the new Bishop devoted himself to the duties of his office he would have a sufficiently large income; but if he came in and attended to other things he must look to other things for his support.

Judge OGDEN had no motion at this time, to make, but merely desired to call the attention of the Convention to the subject.

The Rev. Messrs. BILLOPP, CADY, MERRITT and FIELD were appointed Trustees of the Theological Seminary in New-York, to fill vacancies, and the eight Trustees in office during the past year were reappointed; these appointments are made subject to the confirmation or rejection of the General Episcopal Convention of the United States, which meets in October at Richmond, Va.

JOSEPH W. HAYES, Esq., of Newark, Treasurer of the Diocese, presented his report. The present amount of the Episcopal Fund is $12,965 80. The present amount of OLDEN'S legacy is $6,942. The receipts last year for missions were $2,082 95 and the expenditures $1,853 65. The amount received for assessments for the Episcopal Fund was $678 72. The report was referred to the Rev. Messrs. HOFFMAN and COX, to audit and certify.

An amendment to the Constitution, limiting the number of delegates to any convention of the Diocese to three from each church, was adopted. At the present Convention some churches are represented by ten or more delegates, though each church casts one vote only.

The Convention then at 2½ o'clock adjourned.

At 4½ P. M. the afternoon session commenced.

The following deputies to the General Convention were elected:

Clergy—The Rev. Dr. Milo Mahan, the Rev. Dr. A. Stubbs, the Rev. C. Dunn, and the Rev. John Kelly.

Laity—D. B. Ryall, the Hon. J. W. Miller, J. H. Thompson, M. D., Judge T. P. Carpenter.

The following supplemental deputies were chosen:

Clergy—The Rev. D. Brown, the Rev. V. Bruce, the Rev. E. K. Smith, the Rev. T. F. Billopp.

Laity—S. V. Hoffman, J. W. Condit, H. McFarlane, the Hon. B. Williamson.

The Rev. Mr. BOWDEN offered a resolution directing that a Committee of seven be appointed to inquire into the expediency of applying to the Legislature for a charter to incorporate seven Trustees of the Diocese. It was adopted.

Judge OGDEN offered a resolution requesting the Rev. Dr. MAHAN to furnish the Convention with a copy of his sermon on the late Bishop DOANE for publication. It was adopted unanimously.

The Rev. Mr. BOWDEN offered a resolution in favor of amending the canons so as to increase the salary of the Bishop to $3,000 per annum, payable quarterly. It was carried unanimously.

A vote of thanks was presented to the Chairman and Secretaries for their faithful discharge of their duties, the members of the Convention united in religious services, and at a few minutes before 7 P. M. adjourned sine die.

To this quiet old town, which has rested here on the banks of the Delaware, always about as large and as little visited by strong excitements as when WILLIAM PENN lived here and only Quakers were seen in the streets, the occasion of the assemblage of a Convention which has the disposal of such important interests as that which has been in session here the past three days is one which interests all the inhabitants and makes them patient, but eager and constant spectators whenever there is anything going on. Daily they have attended the Convention in throngs. The town has seldom been so full of strangers. Over the railroad which desecrates the beautiful main street crowds of strangers have been brought hither, and the proprietor of Beldin's Hotel, —the largest in town,—has been compelled to "colonize" many of his guests at private houses in the vicinity. To-day, after the election of the Bishop, more than half of the delegates returned home, and now the Sabbath stillness which usually prevails here will resume its reign.

The newly-elected Bishop is between forty and forty-five years of age, and, if I am rightly informed, was born in Philadelphia. His father, a well-to-do merchant of that city, is still living. He was educated at the Protestant Episcopal Theological Seminary, in the City of New-York, and from there returned to Philadelphia, where, nearly twenty years ago, he became connected with St. Peter's Church, as assistant to the Rev. Dr. DELANCY, who was then its rector. Six months afterward Dr. DELANCY was elected Bishop of Western New-York, and Dr. ODENHEIMER succeeded him, as rector of St. Peter's Church, which has been his parochial charge ever since. Five years ago he went abroad, and spent eighteen months in travelling in Europe and the Holy Land. On his return he published a book, describing what he had seen in his travels. He has published several small works on Education and Theology. He is a fine-looking man—stout, erect, and intellectual-looking. He is of medium stature and dignified carriage. He is eloquent in the pulpit, eminently social in private life, and is exceedingly popular with the clergy of Pennsylvania and with his own congregation. He is a High-Churchman. His consecration cannot take place until after his confirmation by the General Convention in October. It is probable that the ceremony will be performed at the General Convention immediately after the confirmation.

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

Old-School Presbyterian General Assembly at Indianapolis.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Monday, May 23—P. M.

The Assembly is much pressed for room. There are three hundred and forty Commissioners now present, and these, with the train that usually follows in the track of such bodies, with the curious in this city superadded, make the Third Church (though it will seat 800 persons) a very hot place. I have just come from trying to get to hear the Rev. Dr. PALMER, of New-Orleans, preach the annual sermon on Foreign Missions. I was much disappointed when, at a station as we passed along, this already distinguished man was pointed out to me. He had all the abandon of the Southern gentleman, as he puffed his cigar into the morning air. His stature is below the average height, and his features resemble, in many respects, the portraits I have seen of JOHN PHILPOT CURRAN. He has not a Caucasian type of beauty about him, but, like CURRAN, he has the black eye sparkling like a diamond, and as his soul flashes forth in his seasons of inspiration, he proclaims that he is more than the ordinary measure of a man. He is not more than thirty-five years old in appearance. He may be forty. I am glad to find a young man raising his head among the elders. Why should not more of the young men speak out? Youth is the season for genius and heroism. By the way, we must not forget that this was the day for receiving the report of the

FOREIGN BOARD.

Its financial condition is all that could be expected. The receipts from all sources, including $18,112 57 special funds for India, have been $230,830 57. Their Missionaries cover nearly all the available points of the Missionary field. They are arranging to take advantage of the opening of China and Japan, and at home they follow in the track of the red man, and teach him the arts of agriculture and the advantages of settled homes. They build schools for the young savages, and with the exception of the hunting seasons, the Missionary has pretty uniform success in his labors. It is interesting to know that many have said, like the Chief SHENANDOAH, "I am an aged hemlock, (he was 120 years old,) I am dead at the top—let me die, and lay me beside my Pastor, that I may rise with him at the resurrection." Dr. LOWRIE, the Secretary, advocated the cause with great power—a power which lay not in words, but in the unspoken but deeply felt associations of the man. His brother fell on the field, murdered by men fiercer than wild beasts, and then was he urging men to go to preach the Gospel of Salvation to the very murderers of his brother. The assembly heard as it were a voice from the most excellent glory, "Forgive them for they know not what they do." The manning of the Indian outposts is an act of almost superhuman heroism. The Church, thank God, has still her soldiers of the Cross, men who fear not the face of men or devils if the Captain of the Lord's Host point the way.

THE COMMITTEE ON CHURCH EXTENSION

Presented their report to the Assembly, wherein it appeared that only $29,342 were collected during the past year. The Old School Assembly is one of the most independent consociations in existence. She wants no Sunday School Unions, and Home and Foreign Christian Unions, and Tract Societies, and General Missionary Societies to assist her in her mighty ecclesiastical enterprise. She covers the world with her Boards of Foreign and Domestic Missions. She provides literature, whether tracts or Sunday School books, or the higher order of orthodox libraries, through her Board of Publication. Her Board of Education assists her needy students in preparing for the ministry, and superintends generally, Seminary training. All that was required to render the system complete, seemed to be this Committee for building churches. Its head-quarters are in St. Louis, and it is to be hoped it will grow strong and be successful in its department. Mr. H. VANDYKE, of Brooklyn, wished to push a resolution which would discountenance forever indiscriminate clerical begging for building churches. He said it subjected the cause and the man to much insult and contumely, and he hoped there would be an end of it. He said he had once in his life committed the sin he was deploring, but if the Lord would forgive him, he would never commit it again. Judge BLISS and others from the West severely handled Mr. VANDYKE'S prohibitory rule. They said it was but a scheme to save the pockets of a parcel of stingy rich people in New-York and elsewhere, and they protested against such a miserable minority dictating laws that would paralyze the benevolence of the whole Church. After a discussion, long and animated, the Assembly approved, in the ordinary manner, the report of the Committee, but the clerical mendicants they permitted to roam in all their former glorious independence. Let them go forth, slay, and eat, for the whole land is yet before them.

THE NORTHWESTERN THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY.

In accordance with the resolutions introduced by the Committee on Seminaries, this institution was formally taken under the care and made subject to the control of the Assembly. This Seminary has been a fruitful source of newspaper and other controversy for a long time. The initiated reader will know all about it, and it would not be for general edification to enter into details in this place. Suffice it to say, that, after its adoption as one of the institutions of the Church, the great and dividing question remained to be settled—where it should be located. This whole district, extending I know not how far, but to the extent, as some speakers said, even of a modern empire, is up in arms on this question of location. Like as Rome and Constantinople in ancient days contended for the supremacy of their respective hierarchies, so do, this day, Chicago and Indianapolis contest their claims to be the seats of this "School of the Prophets." Nor are the arguments on either side to be despised. They are of an order of application which seldom knows a failure. Money is the power and point of the reasoning on both sides. We wish we could read in the old way, though it is a false way, "When Greek meets Greek, then comes the tug of war." I wish those critics that tell us that "joins," not "meets," is the word, had let us have the pleasure of illustrating them classically, for it sounds so learnedly, how the contest goes when Gold meets Gold. On the part of Chicago, one Mr. MCCORMICK, a man who has made a million by a patent for a reaping machine, offers $100,000, to be paid in four instalments, provided it be appropriated to the endowment of four professors, and provided, also, that the Seminary building be within the precincts, or within a mile and a half of the said precincts of the City of Chicago. Forty acres of land, value, according to Dr. RICE, $30,000, were also offered, on the conviction that buildings would be erected at a cost of, at least, $50,000.

On the part of Indianapolis the three Synods of the bounds offered	$25,000
The citizens of Indianapolis	25,000
From other sources	6,000
With land by the Rev. W. A. HALLIDAY, worth	10,000

After the reading of the respective documents bearing on these matters, the debate opened by a speech from Mr. STREET, an Elder residing in Indianapolis He had a very slender opinion of that inflation—that mushroom—that bubble called the City of Chicago. It was no place, in his estimation, for the location of any substantial institution. And he rather suspected that the glory of God was not the only motive of the millionaire of that quarter, &c., &c., and wound up by commending Indianapolis as already an established Presbyterian city, and one likely in many respects to meet the demands of the Church in the premises.

Dr. RICE, who it is said was brought from St. Louis with this Seminary in view, was the next speaker. He ably discussed the respective claims of the rival cities. He said Indianapolis was no ways fitted for a Seminary. It was neither small enough nor large enough. It had all the disadvantages of a village and none of the advantages of a great city. A sort of hebbletehoy, neither man nor boy, affair. He would either go to the pure country or to the great thoroughfares of men, and he preferred Chicago, because it was unquestionably a great and rising metropolis, not to beblown away like a cloud or to be bursted like a bubble, but destined to endure for generations as the pride and glory of the great Northwest.

While Dr. RICE was speaking the Assembly adjourned till 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

ANTI-FUGITIVE-SLAVE-LAW CONVENTION.

Great Demonstration at Cleveland—Speeches of Gov. Chase, Senator Wade, and Others—A Declaration.

The Mass Convention of the opponents of the Fugitive Slave law, called to meet in Cleveland on the 24th May, organized by the choice of the Hon. JOSHUA R. GIDDINGS as President. The attendance was very large, and the proceedings enthusiastic. Among the speakers were Gov. CHASE and Senator WADE, of Ohio.

We copy from the Cleveland Herald:

The Elyria train brought in six loaded cars, and in about half an hour afterwards the train from Oberlin brought in thirteen loaded cars. Seven crowded cars came in on the Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati Railroad. From the Lake Shore Railroad came in sixteen carloads of delegates to the Convention. The Cleveland and Pittsburgh Railroad brought in five carloads, and the Cleveland and Mahoning Railroad brought nine crowded cars. The railroads to-day did not bring less than 3,500 people to the Convention.

The delegates from the Eastern lake shore towns, from Wellington and from Oberlin, with their neighboring towns, formed in procession at the dépôts, and marched to the public Square.

Mr. GIDDINGS having been elected President, the following Vice-Presidents were appointed:

John P. Converse, Geauga; John F. Morse, Lake; Geo. H. Howe, Trumbull; Joseph DeWolfe, Portage; James Dumars, Mahoning; J. W. Vance, Knox; Jacob Heaton, Columbiana; James Monroe, Lorain; Herman Canfield, Medina; Sidney Edgerton, Summit; Dr. A. D. Skillenger, Huron; N. Wentworth, Ashland; Felix Nicliola, Cuyahoga.

Letters were received from the Hon. CASSIUS M. CLAY, the Hon WM. DENNISON, Jr., of Columbus, THOMAS SPOONER of Cincinnati, PHILIP DORSHEIMER of Buffalo, JAS. A. BRIGGS of New-York, and others.

The Hon. EDWARD WADE made a brief speech, full of telling hits and good humor. Mr. WADE has no very exalted opinion of Chief Justice TANEY and the pliant majority of his Bench. He spoke of the Fugitive Slave law, its nature, its constitutionality, and its binding force. Because a Judge, not in the line of his judicial duty, pronounces an enactment law, that does not make it law. He is not to make the law but to look at it as it has been made. What is the Supreme Court, and, what is Justice TANEY? Why! I wish the crowd could look in upon the Supreme Court, as I have done, and I tell you your bump of veneration would fall right in. [Laughter.] You have seen, in passing farmers' barns in the early times of the country, the sides of his barn and out-buildings covered with the skins of coons and other animals. The Supreme Court has much the same appearance and the same nature as these dried parchments.

Mr. GIDDINGS made a long speech, advocating immediate action in regard to suing out a writ of habeas corpus for the release of the untried prisoners. During the course of his remarks he asked all who were willing to submit to tyranny to speak. There was a dead silence. The question was then put as to their disposition to resist tyranny after all legal means had failed, and a thundering "Yes" came up from all the crowd. Mr. GIDDINGS said he should like to hear that voice in every dale and forest in the land, chasing the Democratic Party to the very gates of hell itself. For the benefit of the Democrats present he would say he was willing to try every legal means before proceeding to the last extremity.

Mr. GIDDINGS added:

"I would not wait one hour for the decision of the Supreme Court, but would obtain process from the nearest judicial officer, and if I could direct its proceedings, would have the prisoners brought at once to the stand, and there, in the presence of the people, would have them released, that all may witness the process by which citizens of Ohio are set at liberty when imprisoned under the Fugitive act."

[In a subsequent note, addressed to the Cleveland Leader, Mr. GIDDINGS defines his exact position:]

"My position has been, now is, and probably will be while I live, that when the forms of law shall fail, and peaceful resources exhausted, I would maintain the liberties of our citizens against the Fugitive act by force."

At this point Governor CHASE arrived, and his appearance was greeted with tumultuous cheering.

J. M. ROOT addressed the meeting. He said that the Fugitive Slave Law was not passed to catch runaway niggers, but to humiliate the North—to make it eat dirt.

SPEECH OF GOVERNOR CHASE.

Governor CHASE came forward, and was received with tremendous applause. Waiting a few moments for the excitement to subside, he commenced as follows;

FELLOW-CITIZENS: A few hours ago I was sitting in my office at Columbus, not expecting to meet you here to-day. But having received a summons to attend this meeting, I felt that it was my duty to be here, and I have, therefore, come. I have not come to speak to you words of excitement, nor to urge you to anything that you may hereafter have occasion to regret. In every juncture there are two courses open for adoption—the right and the wrong.

The American people have the power in their own hands through the ballot-box, to proceed in a lawful manner to repeal a bad law, and if necessary to reform law-makers and law breakers. You can do it all, and therefore it is not necessary to resort to any course of action that we cannot at all times carry out in a proper manner. What is the state of this case? Men whom we all know and honor, are incarcerated in yonder jail for doing what they believed to be right, and what not one man in ten thousand can place his hand on his heart and say is not morally right. This is a great wrong, but what is the true method of redress? We must look at our own Government in the proper light. It is a sovereign State, one of several States forming a general confederation. It exists under a Federal Government and under a State Government. Now the Federal Court may do wrong, as even a State Government may do wrong, but it is a Government that we ourselves have made. If it does wrong, we must turn out the members of that Government and put in men who will conform to the wishes of the people who elected them. So with our State Government. If State officers fail to do their duty, let them be dismissed and proper men put in their places.

The Federal Court, in prosecuting and punishing our incarcerated friends, is acting under the provisions of the Fugitive slave Act. What is our redress? In the first place, it is to defend them, as they have been defended, ably and eloquently, before the Court where they have been indicted. Some persons claim that the law itself is unconstitutional. If improperly made, as claimed, it is no law, and every step taken under it is a nullity. The proper course, under this impression, is, to apply to our own tribunals for relief.

I will not argue the constitutionality of that law. I was present at its passage, and believed then, as I believe now, that act to be more a symbol of practical sovereignty of the Slave States over the Free States than a means of reclamation of fugitive slaves.

The case of our incarcerated friends has been brought before the Courts of the State. These Courts have a perfect right to carry their decrees into action.

I do not wish to say, nor is it proper for you to say, what the decision of our Court should be in the case. That is left for the members of the Court themselves to determine. It is a matter between them, the people and their God. I will only say, what I have frequently said before, that as long as the State of Ohio remains a sovereignty, and as long as I am her Chief Executive, the process of her Courts shall be executed. The process of the United States Courts must not be slighted or resisted; but as long as I represent the sovereignty of our State, I will see that the process of our State Courts shall not be interfered with or resisted, but shall be fully enforced.

If the process of the United States Court is obnoxious to us, let it be remembered that before long we shall have a chance to appoint some one else to use the power of appointing United States officials. We can reform the Judiciary, the Presidency, and the Congress. The process may possibly be too slow to suit some of our more ardent friends here, but it will be accomplished in due time. Thus much I have said to you because, standing here as Governor of Ohio, I claim the rights of a man to speak just what I think. When I am called on to act I will act. [Immense applause.]

Governor CHASE here signified his intention of closing, but the entire crowd unanimously begged him to go on. He thereupon continued,

I will say a few words about the Fugitive Slave Act, and the manner in which it is enforced. With regard to the Act itself, I believe the people are just as competent to discuss its features as is Judge TANEY himself. With regard to its operation, let us look into the present case.

Certain men from the State of Kentucky arrived at Wellington, claiming to hold a power of attorney, which gave them the right to seize and capture a negro boy JOHN. Be it remembered that this JOHN was then under the protection of the laws of Ohio. These men came to take JOHN by force of arms; they came prepared for violence; they came prepared with Bowie-knife and revolver to execute a legal document. Was this a way to make an arrest as provided by the Constitution? Was this peace? It is war! Under a construction allowing such means for the enforcement of the Fugitive Slave Law, that law executes itself. The Constitution provides that no man shall be deprived of his liberty without due process of law. This means, of course, trial by jury and proper hearing in a court of law. The arrest under the power of attorney was directly in conflict with this clause. Private seizure within the limits of any State, where such seizure has not been regularly legalized by the laws of that State, is illegal.

There was, and I presume is, a paper published in this city known as the Plaindealer. At the time the Fugitive Slave Act was passed, the editor of that paper and myself had something to do with each other. At that time the editor of the Plaindealer declared that whether that Act was constitutional or not, it was infernal in its origin. When that editor thus spoke he uttered the truth. It was never intended that the Constitution should be the shield and guarantee of Slavery in its incursions on the Free States and Free Territories. If the framers of that Constitution could have seen or even dreamed of the construction now put upon it by some men, that Constitution would never have been adopted. They thought, with Mr. MADISON, that it was wrong to recognize property in man, and so far from intending to foster Slavery, they were calculating on its total extinction in a brief period.

Let us go peaceably to work. Let us go to our Courts for redress. Let us not use undue pressure to influence their decisions; and, whatever that decision may be, let us do our duty. For the power, after all, rests with the people. They can, through the ballot-box, regulate all things. Let us see that we execute that power properly. See that right and faithful men are sent to Congress. Be sure that a President is sent to Washington who will truly represent the wishes of the people, and who will see that the Constitution be the security and guarantee of liberty, not the prop of Slavery.

In concluding, he said that he had not given utterance to all he wished, but what he had said, he was willing to live by, and willing to die by. He begged them to be faithful to themselves, to their country and to the laws.

The Convention adopted a "Declaration," beginning as follows:

"This assembly of the People of Ohio, holding—

That, next to our duty to the Supreme Being, is the obligation to preserve our free institutions and our civil liberties;

That the greatest tyrants have been those whose titles have been least questioned;

That every violation of the Constitution should be watched with jealousy and resented with spirit:

That the history of every free people has shown the impossibility of a cordial compliance with laws which neither embody nor execute the public will;

That the enforcement of such laws, against an unwilling people, is productive only of evil, threatening public order and the stability of governmental institutions.

And holding, furthermore—

That the history of the Government of the United States, as recently administered, is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the Africanization of this Continent, by the diffusion and establishment of Slavery, and the restriction and limitation of Freedom; thus reversing the ancient policy of the founders of the Republic, which looked to the extinction of Slavery and the extension of Liberty; and

That the Dred Scott decision, reversing all the well-established rules which for ages have been the bulwark of personal liberty, yields its legitimate fruits in the recent atrocities committed in the heart of the Western Reserve, and calls upon us for new efforts and new sacrifices for constitutional liberty, do, therefore, publish and declare:

First—That the several States composing the United States of America are not united on the principle of unlimited submission to their General Government; but that, by compact, under the style and title of a Constitution for the United States, and of amendments thereto, they constituted a General Government for special purposes, delegated to that Government certain definite powers, reserving each State to itself, the residuary mass of right to their own self-government; and that whensoever the General Government assumes undelegated powers, its acts are unauthoritative, void and of no force, and being void, can derive no validity from mere judicial interpretation; that to this compact each State acceded as a State, and is an integral party; that this Government created by this compact, was not made the exclusive or final judge of the extent of the powers delegated to itself, since that would have made its discretion and not the Constitution the measure of its powers; but that, as in all other cases of compact among parties having no common judge, each party has an equal right to judge for itself, as well of infractions as of the mode and measure of redress.

Second—That the law commonly called the Fugitive Slave law of 1850, was, in the opinion of this assembly, passed by Congress in the exercise of powers improperly assumed, and had it been presented as an original question to a wise, impartial, and independent Court, must have been held to be in conflict with the Constitution, and therefore void.

[Following these declarations are five others, —setting forth a remonstrance against the pliant subserviency of the Supreme Court to the agents of party politics; declaring the absolute necessity of an amendment of the Federal Judiciary system; censuring the action of the United States District Court in the matter of the Oberlin trials; and recommending the establishment of a relief fund for the prisoners. This proposition reads as follows:]

That a fund be raised for their relief and indemnification, to be called the "Fund of Liberty;" and to the end that every Republican on the Western Reserve may share in accumulating the fund, that contributions be limited to One Dollar each; the same to be collected under the direction of the several County Central Committees of the Reserve; that three Commissioners be appointed by this assembly, to be called "Commissioners of the Liberty Fund," who shall receive said fund, disburse it for the objects named, and account therefor by periodical publications until their duties are performed; applying any surplus to the advancement of Republicanism and Liberty.

The Kansas Gold Humbug.

THE SUFFERING AND STARVATION ON THE PLAINS.

We have already published a brief telegram relative to the suffering and starvation of the Pike's Peak emigrants on the Plains. The following correspondence of the St. Louis Democrat gives fuller particulars:

DENVER CITY, Monday, May 9, 1859.

Saturday evening last, 7th inst., the first and long-looked-for mail and passenger stage of the Leavenworth and Pike's Peak Stage Company arrived here. It was out twenty days from Leavenworth, but now that the way stations are formed, and bridges made, it is thought fourteen or fifteen days will suffice to make the trip. The new route thus laid out, via Republican Fork of Kansas River, seems to be a good one, according to the report of the Stage Company, though about the same length as the old Fort Kearney and Arkansas routes, hilly and sandy on this end, and destitute of timber for fuel for an equal distance with the others, or some 100 or 160 miles.

We have had sickening rumors for a week past of horrible suffering from freezing, starvation and robbery of emigrants by way of the Smoky Hill route. Several intelligent gentlemen who have arrived by that route, told me they themselves were so long on the way—over sand and hills, and without a road at all, that they were reduced almost to starvation—lived ten or fourteen days upon prickly pears and such few wild onions and other edibles as they could pick up, and also that they helped bury several persons who died from starvation. The agent of the stage company brought us in word that he picked up a starving man some fifty miles from here, (or an Arrapahoe Indian brought him in to the stage line,) who had come across from the Smoky Hill route, (which his company had started on, and tried to follow;) that when found, he was in a most wretched condition. His name is BLUE, and he is from Whiteside County, Illinois. There were three brothers of them—first, one died, and the two remaining ate from his body, after they had been rendered senseless from emaciation. The second brother died and was nearly eaten up by the survivor. The stage agent went out and buried the remains of the second or youngest of the brothers, but could not find the remains of the first who died. A man named GIBBS was the leader of the starved company. GIBBS got in, nearly starved, and supposes the rest, some nine in all, perished. The survivor was left at one of the mail stations, and the report is confirmed by the stage passengers. Others report large number of graves on the route, and that many oxen have perished and much property been destroyed and abandoned on the way. I saw one party which lost seven out of a train of sixteen oxen.

By receipt of papers from the States I perceive that the tide of emigration hitherward is very great. The number of arrivals here to-day and for the past few days shows an increase; but the tide seems to me equally strong in the homeward-bound direction. Most, or very many of those now returning go by skiffs, dug-outs, &c., upon the Platte, the water of this river being now in a good navigable state, down stream, for such craft.

About fifty boats of one kind and another have sailed in the past week, with an average of four or five persons in each. It is estimated that 2,500 persons have left here for home in the last twenty days. This is in addition to those who turned back before reaching here, induced by the intelligence received from others on their return. Probably as many more reached here in that time; but I think there are no more people in the whole mining country to-day than there were on my arrival here a month ago. The towns (or villages which they all are, and small ones too,) seem quite deserted by whites, and as many Indians as pale faces are now in and about this village. Yesterday a dozen or more Indian braves, of the Arrapahoe tribe, rode in, accompanied by their head chief, RAVEN, and two of his brothers, They collected at the office of Judge SMITH, to hold a talk with the whites, relative to an arrangement with the Government for a sale of their territory, and some aid to their nation to become an agricultural and a civilized one. They are already about as civil as the whites here, and far more temperate; indeed, I've not seen an intoxicated Indian in the mining region. The interpreter, one ANTOINE DU BRAY, was drunk at the meeting, and falling off his seat as he sat down by the intelligent-looking and dignified Quaker-like chief, RAVEN, rendered any attempt at a pow-wow a farce; and it was immediately adjourned for a day until the interpeter should become sober. I may yet be enabled to give you an account of the talk.

As for the gold news, or reports from the mines, nothing reliable is heard; but many rumors of paying diggings are afloat, which are not credited by

Yours truly, D.

Rockingham and Shenandoah give HARRIS for Congress 1,600 majority.

RICHMOND, Friday, May 27.

In the Sixth Congressional District, Leake, Dem., has 736 majority in Albemarle County, and 400 in Fluvianna—the latter as far as heard from.

Frederick County—For Congress, Faulkner, Dem., 85 majority over Boteler. One Democratic Senator and two Democratic Delegates are chosen to the Legislature.

Smythe—Smith's majority for Congress is estimated at 134.

Caroline—De Jarnett, for Congress, 351 majority.

Greene—Leake, for Congress, 306 majority.

Jefferson County—Boteler, Opp., 350 majority. There is but one county to be heard from in the district, and Boteler is undoubtedly elected over Faulkner, Dem.

Tyler County—Clemens, Dem., for Congress, has 36 majority over Berkshire, Opp.

RICHMOND, Friday, May 27—10 P. M.

It is impossible to arrive at anything like a definite conclusion of the result to-night. The impression here, however, is that Mr. LETCHER is elected by a greatly reduced majority.

Important Arrest of an Old Counterfeiter—Seizure of $20,000 in Bogus Bills.

From the Philadelphia Pennsylvanian, 27th

Some time since Officer JENKINS, of the United States Marshal's office, had his attention called to the movements of the celebrated counterfeiter, WASHINGTON TAYLOR, who has for a considerable period resided a short distance beyond Long-a-Coming, in Camden County, N. J.; and notwithstanding the fact that TAYLOR was apparently very industriously pursuing his agricultural labors, as though wholly severed from his old confederates in crime, incidents were not wanting to fix the idea in the mind of JENKINS that the devotion of the old man to his farm was only a cloak to cover some grand professional movement. This idea was strengthened on finding that TAYLOR had dropped the name "WASHINGTON" and adopted the less famous and far more commonplace soubriquet of Peter TAYLOR, and by which he had become well known in the neighborhood: for, though over 62 years of age, he was a man of very active habits. He was found by the officer to be the owner of the farm on which he resided, and also of that adjoining, embracing together about 100 acres, in an excellent state of cultivation; and his repute in the neighborhood was that of honesty and merited thrift. The sagacity of officer JENKINS saw through all these, and he watched closely all the old man's movements. He had become satisfied long since that TAYLOR'S in-door pursuits were more cherished than his outdoor avocations, and deeming, from a variety of circumstances, that some of the old man's plans were approaching maturity, he resolved upon paying his respects to him in person.

Accordingly, yesterday morning, officers JENKINS and TAGGART drove up to the residence of TAYLOR. They were met at the door by TAYLOR'S wife, who, ignorant of their errand, proceeded to call TAYLOR, who was at the time in the back room up stairs. TAYLOR appeared in his stocking feet. He had manifestly just left his work. He recognized the officer at once, and, pretending serious indisposition, regretted that he should still be an object of suspicion. The officers, however, insisted upon an examination of the premises, and he was finally induced to lead the way up stairs. They soon came to the door of a room securely locked. The old man denied having the key, but seeing that the door would else be forced, he took the key from his pocket and unlocked it. The officers entered and found all their suspicions confirmed. The room was unrivaled in completeness as a manufactory of counterfeit notes. There was an elegant and superior copying press, a very large amount of note paper, inks, acids, engravers' tools, and a large number of plates, both for printing counterfeits and for altering notes, all of which the officers seized.

TAYLOR had been interrupted by their arrival, while printing an admirable counterfeit $5 note on the "State Bank of Camden," and they found in the room, and just from the press, notes of this description to the amount of $42,000, none of which had yet been signed. The plate was upon the press, and the original note, from which the counterfeit had been traced and engraved, was carefully stowed away in a drawer. They obtained also $5,000 in 5's on the Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank of Camden, and about $4,000 in 5's on the Union Bank, at Easton, Pa., together with the plates, which are engraved with rare skill. None of these notes had been signed. They obtained some twelve or fifteen different plates, and the tracings for two or three new plates. One of these was a counterfeit on the Corn Exchange Bank of Philadelphia, and another the Bank of the Northern Liberties—the latter being well advanced.

The officers returned to Camden during the afternoon, with their prisoner and booty; and on being taken before JAMES M. CASSADY, Esq., of Camden, TAYLOR was committed, without bail, for a further hearing, on Tuesday next, at 10 o'clock. The officers were delighted with the order and precision which reigned in TAYLOR'S establishment. Everything was in its place, and all his work denoted skill. His tools and all his materials were of the finest description. He had taken great pride in fitting up the place, and manifested sincere regret in leaving it in his old age.

TAYLOR—"WASH. TAYLOR," as he is called—is a man of great repute in the counterfeiting fraternity. They know his work by his skill. He does everything himself—engraving, printing, and even signing. He has been in the business some forty years, but he never passes a note of his own manufacture. He sells his manufactures to the fraternity in quantities of $10,000 and $20,000. In his time he has been in half the jails of the country, and has been several times convicted. He has no equal in point of skill in all the departments of counterfeiting.

RECALL OF SANTA ANNA—THE TEHUANTEPEC STEAMER DETAINED AT NEW-ORLEANS.

A private dispatch from New-Orleans says: "MIRAMON'S Cabinet had issued a decree restoring SANTA ANNA to all rights and titles which he formerly held in Mexico, and inviting his return, via Tampico, whither Gen. WOLL is marching to meet him."

The dispatch also says: "The steamer Coatzacoalcos, of the Tehuantepec route, has been attached by creditors. She cannot, therefore, leave to-day, (Friday,) with her California mails and passengers for the New-Overland route to the Pacific. It is thought in New-Orleans, however, that the matter will be arranged in a few days."

English Declaration of Neutrality.

From the London Gazette.

BY THE QUEEN.—A PROCLAMATION.

VICTORIA, R.

Whereas we are happily at peace with all sovereigns, Powers and States;

And, whereas, notwithstanding our utmost exertions to preserve peace between all the sovereign Powers and States now at war, hostilities have unhappily commenced between his Imperial Majesty the Emperor of Austria on the one part, and his Majesty the King of Sardinia and his Imperial Majesty the Emperor of the French on the other part;

And whereas a state of war now exists between his Imperial Majesty the Emperor of Austria on the one part, and his Majesty the King of Sardinia and his Imperial Majesty the Emperor of the French on the other part, and their respective subjects and others inhabiting within their countries, territories or dominions;

And whereas we are on terms of friendship and amicable intercourse with all and each of these sovereigns, and with their several subjects, and others, inhabiting within their countries, territories, or dominions;

And whereas great numbers of our loyal subjects reside and carry on commerce, and possess property and establishments, and enjoy various rights and privileges within the dominions of each of the aforesaid sovereigns, protected by the faith of treaties between us and each of the aforesaid sovereigns;

And whereas we, being desirous of preserving to our subjects the blessings of peace, which they now happily enjoy, are firmly purposed and determined to abstain altogether from taking any part, directly or indirectly, in the war now unhappily existing between the said sovereigns, their subjects and territories, and to remain at peace with, and to maintain a peaceful and friendly intercourse with, all and with each of them, and their respective subjects, and others inhabiting within any of their countries, territories and dominions, and to maintain a strict and impartial neutrality in the said hostilities and war, unhappily existing between them;

We, therefore, have thought fit, by and with the advice of our Privy Council, to issue this our Royal proclamation.

And we do hereby strictly charge and command all our loving subjects to govern themselves accordingly, and to observe a strict neutrality in and during the aforesaid hostilities and war, and to abstain from violating or contravening either the laws and statutes of the realm in this behalf or the law of nations in relation thereto, as they will answer to the contrary at their peril.

And whereas in and by a certain statute made and passed in the 59th year of his Majesty King GEORGE the Third, entitled "An act to prevent the enlistment or engagement of his Majesty's subjects to serve in a foreign service, and the fitting out or equipping, in his Majesty's dominions, vessels for warlike purposes, without his Majesty's license," it is amongst other things declared and enacted as follows: That if any person within any part of the United Kingdom, or in any part of his Majesty's dominions beyond the seas, shall, without the leave and license of his Majesty, for that purpose first had and obtained as aforesaid, equip, furnish, fit out, or arm, or procure to be equipped, furnished, fitted out, or armed, or shall knowingly aid, assist, or be concerned in the equipping, furnishing, fitting out, or arming of any ship or vessel, with intent, or in order that each ship or vessel shall be employed in the service of any foreign prince, State or potentate, or of any foreign colony, province, or part of any province or people, or of any person or persons exercising or assuming to exercise any powers of government in or over any foreign State, colony, province, or part of any province or people, as a transport or store-ship, or with intent to cruise or commit hostilities against any prince, State, or potentate, or against the subjects or citizens of any prince, State, or potentate, or against the persons exercising, or assuming to exercise, the powers of government in any colony, province, or part of any province or country, or against the inhabitants of any foreign colony, or part of any province or country, with whom his Majesty shall not then be at war, or shall, within the United Kingdom, or any of his Majesty's dominions, or in any settlement, colony, territory, island, or place, belonging or subject to his Majesty, issue or deliver any commission for any ship or vessel, to the intent that such ship or vessel shall be employed as aforesaid, every such person so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, upon any information or indictment, be punished by fine and imprisonment, or either of them, at the discretion of the Court in which such offender shall be convicted; and every such ship or vessel, with the tackle, apparel and furniture, together with all the materials, arms, ammunition and stores, which may belong to or be on board of any such ship or vessel, shall be forfeited; and it shall be lawful for any officer of his Majesty's customs or excise, or any officer of his Majesty's navy who is by law empowered to make seizures for any forfeiture incurred under any of the laws of customs or excise, or the laws of trade and navigation, to seize such ships and vessels as aforesaid, and in such places and in such manner, in which the officers of his Majesty's customs or excise, and the officers of his Majesty's navy, are empowered respectively to make seizure under the laws of customs and excise, or under the laws of trade and navigation; and that every such ship and vessel, with the tackle, apparel and furniture, together with all the materials, arms, ammunition and stores which may belong to or be on board of such ship or vessel, may be prosecuted and condemned, in the like manner, and in such courts as ships or vessels may be prosecuted and condemned for any breach of the laws made for the protection of the revenues of customs and excise, or of the laws of trade and navigation."

And it is, in and by the said act, further enacted "That if any person in any part of the United Kingdom of Great Britain or Ireland, or in any part of his Majesty's dominions beyond the seas, without the leave and license of his Majesty for that purpose first had and obtained as aforesaid, shall, by adding to the number of the guns of such vessel, or by changing those on board for other guns, or by the addition of any equipment for war, increase or augment, or procure to be increased or augmented, or shall be knowingly concerned in increasing or augmenting the warlike force of any ship or vessel of war, or cruiser, or other armed vessel, which, at the time of her arrival in any part of the United Kingdom, or any of his Majesty's dominions, was a ship of war, cruiser, or armed vessel, in the service of any foreign prince, State, or potentate, or of any person or persons exercising, or assuming to exercise, any powers of government in or over any colony, province, or part of any province or people, belonging to the subjects of any such prince, State, or potentate, or to the inhabitants of any colony, province, or part of any province or country, under the control of any person or persons so exercising, or assuming to exercise, the powers of government, every such person so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, upon being convicted thereof, upon any information or indictment, be punished by fine and imprisonment, or either of them, at the discretion of the court before which such offender shall be convicted.

Now, in order that none of our subjects may unwarily render themselves liable to the penalties imposed by the said statute, we do hereby strictly command that no person whatsoever do commit any act, matter, or thing whatsoever, contrary to the provisions of the said statute, upon pain of the several penalties by the said statute imposed, and of our high displeasure.

And we do hereby further warn and admonish all our loving subjects, and all persons whatsoever entitled to our protection, to observe towards each and all of the aforesaid sovereigns, their subjects, and territories, and towards all belligerents whatsoever, with whom we are at peace, the duties of neutrality; and to respect, in all and each of them, the exercise of those belligerent rights which we and our royal predecessors have always claimed to exercise.

And we do hereby further warn all our loving subjects, and all persons whatsoever entitled to our protection, that if any of them shall presume, in contempt of this our royal proclamation, and of our high displeasure, to do any acts in derogation of their duty as subjects of a neutral sovereign, in a war between other sovereigns, or in violation or contravention of the law of nations in that behalf, as more especially by breaking, or endeavoring to break, any blockade lawfully and actually established by or on behalf of either of the said sovereigns, by carrying officers, soldiers, despatches, arms, ammunition, military stores or materials, or any article or articles considered and deemed to be contraband of war, according to the law or modern usages of nations, for the use or service of any or either of the said sovereigns, that all persons so offending, together with their ships and goods, will rightfully incur, and justly liable to, hostile capture, and to the penalties denounced by the law of nations in that behalf.

And we do hereby give notice, that all our subjects and persons entitled to our protection who may misconduct themselves in the premises, will do so at their peril, and of their own wrong; and that they will in no wise obtain any protection from us against such capture, or such penalties as aforesaid, but will, on the contrary, incur our high displeasure by such misconduct.

Given at our Court at Buckingham Palace, this 13th day of May, in the year of our Lord 1859, and in the 22d year of our reign.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN.

The Imperial Address to the Army, and English Neutrality.

From the London Times.

In ancient Rome, Generals who had finished a successful war rode in triumph along the Sacred Way to the Capitol; but it has been left to the present inheritor of those great traditions to march along the Sacred Way to the field of battle, and to triumph before he has ever fought. Perhaps if LOUIS NAPOLEON BONAPARTE had been bred a practical soldier, and had served with armies in the field before he came to take the command of one at fifty years of age, he would have imitated the ancient Roman in his two qualities of modesty and of respect for the enemy. But the Proclamation of the French Emperor breathes only the recollections of the first Bonapartist Empire. That the present French troops are the equals of the Republican warriors, whom the first NAPOLEON'S discipline made so terrible to Austria—that, on the other hand, the Austrians themselves are the slow pedantic race who fell an easy victim to the great man—that everything will happen according to the precedents of 1796 and 1800, is presupposed as certain in the Imperial Proclamation. Such a document is, of course, not to be judged as if it were a political manifesto. It is published to inspire courage in followers and to strike terror into enemies, and therefore a tone of confidence, and even of presumption, may be fairly excused. But it certainly seems that the expectation of the French respecting their speedy success is real, and that the Emperor in his address only echoes the voice both of his army and people. The French have won so many victories over the Austrians on the fields of Italy, and they have so completely forgotten the reverses which they occasionally suffered, that Paris, France, and the Camp, fully believe that the enemy is to be swept completely out of Italy in the first campaign, and that if Germany waits for the next three months before assisting the Austrian army, there will no longer be an Austrian army to assist.

There can be no doubt that this confidence has its effect on Europe, and perhaps on the enemy. It is the privilege of France to have completely the ear of other nations, and to be able to represent events pretty much at her pleasure. It is only the educated—those who may be almost called historical students—who know anything about the unsuccessful campaigns of France with any other country than their own. The Treaties of 1815 had been signed, and the world had begun to gather its materials for a history of the great war, before Continental nations knew much about the capitulation of Alexandria, or the battle of Trafalgar, or even of the Peninsular campaigns. The brilliant victories of the Austrians and Russians in 1799 remain entirely obscured by the splendor of Rivoli and Marengo; nor has Aspern left much impression on those who remember every incident of Wagram. This reputation of the French arms is, no doubt, justly earned, for it is at once the tribute due to the valor and the civilization of the people. And it would be of little danger to Europe, did it not unfortunately blind the French themselves to the difficulties of the war. From infancy the Frenchman is nourished in ideas of the martial superiority of his race. From the histories given to the young, national vanity has eliminated every passage which could tell a tale adverse to the national glory. The battles by sea and land with England are passed over almost without notice, as it would be difficult to wrest them into a narrative gratifying to patriotic feeling; while the campaigns against the Continental Monarchies, and especially Austria, are related at a length which leaves little room for anything done in France previous to 1792, or for the political events which have happened since 1815. France then, and her Emperor enter upon this war with a confidence which may bring success, but which may possibly lead to eventual disaster. It is not our business to be the prophet of evil to either party, yet we may warn the Chief who speaks in so lofty a tone of the victories of his predecessor, that Europe is much changed from the days when a General could overrun a province in a few weeks, beat army after army, and dictate a peace to his beaten foe. War is now on a more gigantic scale; to take the offensive requires larger calculations, a more subtle and reflective genius, greater resources, and a greater superiority over the enemy than heretofore. We have been always among the first to acknowledge the high qualities of the French soldier; some of the Emperor's troops, such as the Garde Impériale and the Zouaves, are probably as fine troops as any existing in the world, and he must be a very bigoted reader of history who will doubt the general superiority of the French, with their unity, their nationality, their excellent organization, and their constitutional quickness and alertness, to the motley armies which a HESS or a GYULAI command. But we would wish to guard our countrymen, ever ready to be led away by such documents as the Manifesto and Address of LOUIS NAPOLEON, from speculating on the speedy issue of the campaign. We have observed a tendency within the last few days to fancy that everything is over, and that the war, confined to narrow limits, will be decided by a battle under the walls of Milan. The credulity of the City and that of the West-end are in these things about on a par, and excessive panic one week is balanced by excessive complacency the next. The intelligence, however, which reaches us from Central Europe indicates a stubbornness on the part of Austria not likely to end in a second Campo Formio, while the attitude of the other German States is such that either a French victory or a French reverse might be the signal for an interference in the quarrel. If the French Emperor carries through his plans, obtains at once the neutrality of Germany and the help of the Italian people, wins victories in the field such as to shake the courage of the hostile army, and captures fortresses so easily as to terrify the Viennese Government which has depended on them, he will, indeed, add the laurels of war to the crown which commemorates his civic triumphs. But, though we think his chances of success are fair and trustworthy, yet war is too dangerous a game to be commenced by a novice in the style to which the Great NAPOLEON proved his right by a constellation of victories.

In strong contrast to the lofty tone of the belligerent Emperor is the Proclamation of Her Majesty our own Queen, declaring the neutrality of the British Empire. Although couched in the formal language which has probably more than once done duty on a similar occasion, the proclamation speaks in impressive accents to England and the world. It says that this country is disposed to give no help either to the despotism which affects philanthropy or that which takes its stand on cold legality. All the three States which are engaged in this war are without doubt bringing misery on themselves by their unscrupulous ambition or unreasoning obstinacy. France, even if presently victorious, must pay the penalty in increased burdens, a stricter military rule, and the final destruction of every tendency which could lead her back to the forms of free political life. Austria can gain nothing, and should she even retain what she now holds it will be at a cost of blood and treasure which a generation cannot replace. As for Sardinia, the instrument of the one and the intended victim of the other, we can see clearly only one thing—that the short-lived Constitution which attracts the sympathies of Europe has now passed away, to be replaced by obsequious Assemblies after the Bonapartist type. As for the freedom of Italy, the professed object of this crusade, we can afford to stand aloof and allow it to be accomplished by other hands. We have done our part in the liberation of peoples. The "fond ally which bleeds for all" has too often "bled in vain" for Englishmen to be enthusiastic in this matter. If the Italians can be made happy we shall rejoice at it, and be happy to give to France all the glory of the deed. In the meantime, the people of this country will do as their Sovereign bids them, and keep out of a contest begun in duplicity and violence, and of which the end is hidden in darkness. In Paris, Turin, or Vienna our countrymen will abstain from anything which may be construed into active partizanship with the belligerents; no soldier shall be enlisted, no vessel fitted out in these islands, for the purposes of either, and the blockades established by any one over the ports of another will be respected according to the rules of international law. By a strict adherence to this policy we shall be placed in a position to look with calmness on the drama which is now on the point of opening.

Funeral of Baron Humboldt.

From the London Star.

On Tuesday last the remains of this great man were committed to the tomb, on which day Berlin presented a scene that will be ever-memorable to those who witnessed it. Early in the morning the people assembled in countless crowds in the well-known thoroughfare Unter den Linden and in Friedrichstrasse, through which places the procession was to pass. Orienburgerstrasse, at No. 67, in which street HUMBOLDT died, was closed to the populace, and nearly all the houses in it were draped with black flags and other insignia of mourning. Those persons who were about to take part in the cortége assembled by degrees before the house, and soon the collected intelligence of the capital was there. Those who had not seen the great philosopher since his death, then hastened to take a last look at his remains. The coffin consisted of a single shell of oak, and was placed in HUMBOLDT'S study. Here hung the well known portrait of HILDEBRANDT, surrounded by palm leaves and blooming exotics, which emblems forcibly reminded the spectators of the long and hazardous travels in tropical lands, which the great man had accomplished to the great benefit of science and of mankind in general.

Soon after 8 o'clock, all the friends having taken a last lingering look at the body, the coffin was conveyed to the catafalque in front of the house. As soon as the coffin appeared in sight, all of the immense crowd who were able to obtain a glimpse of it, instantly bared their heads in token of the great respect they entertained for their great countryman, who had so recently passed from them. The cavalcade was soon afterwards in motion, and after the chief mourners, among whom were his servants and those of his family, followed the students of the Friedrich Wilhelm University, about 600 in number, led by marshals bearing black rods, and then came a band of musicians, and after them eight clergymen, among whom was the general Superintendent, HOFFMAN. Near the hearse were three court chamberlains, the Count of FURSTENBERG STAMMHEIM, Count VON DONHOFF, and Baron VON ZACKLITZ, to whom a fourth was added, bearing, on red velvet cushions, the insignia of the high Order of the Black Eagle, the civil division of the Order of Merit, and countless other orders, which the deceased possessed. The horses drawing the hearse were led by six royal grooms, and there were also five court footmen and a yager, and immediately after the hearse were twenty deputies of the students' societies, each bearing branches of palm. The coffin itself was decorated with palm branches, a laurel crown, and a crown of white azalea blossoms. The bearers of the body followed next, and then the knights of the Order of the Black Eagle, and at their head the chief of the order, General VON WRANGEL; the General of the infantry, Prince WRADZIVILL; and the General of the cavalry, Count VON DER GRÖBEN. Then came the Ministers of State, all in their most brilliant uniforms, and various other dignitaries, as well as a great number of foreigners of distinction, and some members of the diplomatic corps. Nearly all the members of both houses of the Legislature were also present, headed by their Presidents and Vice-Presidents; then came the high State officials, the members of the Academy of Sciences, the Professors of the University, at their head the chief rector, Dr. DOVE, and the deacon of the four faculties, members of the Academy of Arts, and directors and students of the schools of Berlin, and the magistrates and officials of the city, without exception and many other persons who were privileged to attend. The mounted procession was closed by a considerable number of persons of all classes, many of whom had come from distant Prussian towns in order to pay a last tribute of respect to the departed philosopher. Heading a long row of equipages which brought up the rear were a State carriage of the King and Queen, drawn by eight horses, one of the Prince Regent's, and those of the Princes and the diplomatic corps.

Before the Frederic Gymnasium, in Friedrichstrasse, the pupils were assembled, as were also those of another school in the same street, and as the procession approached the boys sang a hymn. Throughout the whole line of procession the crowd bared their heads; and at the windows of the houses, which were filled by the residents and others, numerous marks of respect were observed; and among the populace, who filled every nook and corner whence a view of the cortége could be obtained, an unbroken and mournful silence prevailed. As soon as the "Linden" was passed, the sound of the tolling bells came on the air, mingled with the strains of a hymn sung by the Choral Society of Berlin. Beside the portico of the Dom Church, the goal of the procession, were the Prince Regent, the Prince FREDERIC-WILHELM, Prince ALBRECHT and the young Prince ALBRECHT, and Princes FREDERIC, GEORGE, ADALBERT, and AUGUSTUS of Wurtemberg, and FREDERIC of Hesse-Cassel, who received the remains of the illustrious deceased with uncovered heads. At the principal entrance of the church stood the court preacher, surrounded by several other ecclesiastics, and in their midst the coffin was borne to the altar and placed on a bier, before which and on either side were placed the cushions bearing the orders and decorations of the deceased, and the bearers of which placed themselves at the head of the coffin. The altar was richly decorated with palms and blooming flowers, and there were four immense candelabra bearing immense wax tapers, the light from which mingled itself with that of the sun, which had broken bright and clear through the morning, and at that moment lit up the vaulted arches of the sacred building. The Princes and Princesses FREDERIC WILHELM, CARL, FREDERIC CARL, and FREDERIC, of Hesse, witnessed the mournful ceremony from their accustomed seats in the church. A funeral sermon was preached by the General Superintendent of the Clergy, M. HOFFMAN, who dwelt at some length on the many virtues and estimable qualities of the deceased, after which the assembly sung a hymn, and a short prayer was offered up, and then the usual service for the dead was proceeded with, and another short hymn by the congregation closed the ceremony.

The coffin rested in the church during the day, but at night it was removed to Tegel, a small village near Berlin, where HUMBOLDT'S early days were passed, and there it was entombed within the family vault. Here, also, rests HUMBOLDT'S brother WILHELM, who preceded him to the tomb 24 years ago, and the place is further distinguished as containing a beautiful statue of "Hope," by THORWALDSEN.

England Depending upon America in the War Crisis.

From the Times' City Article, May 14.

The certainty that a European war will interfere with the carrying trade, not only of all the Powers directly involved, but even of those which may be in danger of being drawn in, has caused inquiry to be directed to the possibility of registering European ships under the American flag. The statute law of the United States is, in this respect, virtually prohibitive. No foreign ship can be registered unless a sum equal to two-thirds of her value shall have been expended upon her in repairs or improvements in America. Even an American vessel which has been lawfully condemned by a foreign Government, or sold to a foreigner, cannot, upon being re-purchased by an American, receive, except upon these conditions, a new register. It is also provided that foreign vessels which may have acquired the American flag shall lose the benefit of registration if their owners, being naturalized citizens, reside more than one year in the country of their origin, or two years in any other foreign country. Foreign steamers, if their owners are resident in the United States, may be enrolled for river service, on security being given that they shall not be employed on other waters; and this, apparently, is the sole opening allowed. Any relaxation of the law can be obtained only by a special act of Congress. There is, however, a solution of the difficulty that would meet all general requirements. Although it may be difficult to procure an American register, a vessel can be placed under the American flag by a bill of sale drawn up by the American Consul in England, together with a certificate that she is owned by an American citizen. She will then get the protection afforded by the United States Government to every description of American property, remaining, with regard to tonnage dues and all similar conditions, under the liabilities common to any foreign vessel. That this plan would be extensively adopted in case of England becoming involved in war can scarcely be doubted, and it is probable, also, that increased latitude might be given by special acts to facilitate the granting even of a national registry. The impolicy of the existing restrictions is as obvious as that of all other obstacles to the free interchange of commodities. On the breaking out of a war a neutral country could, of course, purchase vessels from any of the belligerents on highly profitable terms. But if this is forbidden her traders are compelled to build new vessels, and always at an extravagant cost, owing to the general suddenness of demand. Meanwhile the ships which would have fully answered the purpose, and which might have been had at half the outlay, are lying without employment. But when the war is ended these are brought into competition with the expensive vessels built in the interval, and which are at once reduced to an almost nominal value, to the ruin of all who have invested in them. The prohibition, therefore, involves to the neutral country not merely a sheer loss of the difference between the price of the home-built ships and that at which the foreign vessels could have been bought, but also of the amount of depreciation which is ultimately inflicted on both sets of vessels, through the freight-market being glutted with a needless quantity. The Protectionists will urge that there was a great advantage in the employment opened for home labor in the original construction of the new vessels, but this is a long-exploded fallacy. By employing labor in building vessels which might have been had more cheaply elsewhere, they have diverted it from other branches of employment which would have been equally profitable at the time, and which, being independent of any artificial impulse, would not have involved the penalty of an ultimate reaction.

Speech of Oliver Wendell Holmes at the Unitarian Convention in Boston.

THE "AUTOCRAT" DEFENDS HIMSELF.

As the organ of your Committee, by which I have been called upon to make my first appearance at one of your anniversaries, as the presiding officer of the occasion, I welcome you, brothers, sisters and spiritual fathers, to this, our place of meeting. Consecrated to the music that is addressed to the outward ear, its every echo will be in harmony with the voices that make melody in our hearts, as we come together from various regions, but with one feeling to speak to each other the words of friendship and encouragement.

It is customary to allow all presiding officers, and all public speakers, a certain space of time to confess their unfitness for the place they hold, and to deplore their manifold incapacities to discharge its duties. I claim the time-honored privilege of this alloted space, but not for its common purpose. I claim it to defend your Committee and yourselves, in case it and you should be attacked, through the person of your Chairman, who, as his friends inform him, has been recently accused of the crime for which SOCRATES suffered; that of being a poisoner of public opinion.

To this charge your Chairman—always for your sake and not for his own—enters the following plea: Guilty, but with extenuating circumstances.

This trick of poisoning was taught him by his instructors in the art, commonly called, of healing. The doctors of this place have long been famous for its practice. They began poisoning men's bodies in 1721. ZABDIEL BOYLSTON was the first criminal. He poisoned many victims, amidst the howls of the populace and the denunciations of professional rivals and anonymous accusers. And under the name of inoculation this practice of poisoning spread from Boston all over the continent.

At the latter part of the same century, another poisoner, one EDWARD JENNER, introduced the infection into the human system from a brute. The descendants of those same Boston Doctors were the first to adopt the practice, and under the name of vaccination this, too, starting from Boston, spread over the whole Continent.

In the year 1846 a new generation of those same Boston Doctors conceived a fresh poison of their own. By means of it they reduced people to such a wretched state of insensibility that they cut their legs off without knowing anything about it. They call this etherization, and this practice, again starting from yonder hospital, made the circuit of the whole planet.

Other great cities were slow, strangely slow, in adopting these new modes of poisoning. These bold bad fathers and brothers of ours seemed to be always ready for anything. The British Government pardoned convicts that they might be inoculated, but ZABDIEL BOYLSTON took his own son for the first experiment. When vaccination was first brought forward, it was said that it would turn the children into calves and heifers; our fathers tried it on us, and we are thought still to retain the features of humanity. When etherization was proposed to soothe the great bodily grief of the race, it was said to be unscriptural and impious; our physicians gave it to those nearest and dearest to them, and told the commentators to mind their own business.

But the Boston poisoners have not stopped at the body. The quill that carries the vaccine virus is not the only quill that has been loaded with contagious principles.

They poisoned the veins of Loyalty with the virus of Liberty in that hospital of humanity sometimes known as the cradle of that latter personage. So dreadfully did the venom work that Governor HUTCHINSON thought the infected people must be put on a low diet of "English liberties," and even a dish of tea would not stay on their stomachs.

They poisoned the thick black blood of a stagnant theology with the virus of a large and liberal faith. The children of the "Sons of Liberty" looked after the doctrines of the black-coats as their fathers had looked after the firelocks of the red coats. Whether this generation has managed to grow up out of the epoch of spiritual inoculation, let this wholesome and happy assembly bear witness.

Now let us all remember these lessons of the past, for they belong to all of us who deal in any form of thought or knowledge not familiar to the common mind or soul. You cannot introduce the poison of truth under the cuticle of the body, social, political, or religious, without its producing local heat and irritation—sometimes general fever, headache, giddiness, and even delirium, in which the subjects use very bad language, and behave as if they had just broken out of straight jackets. If the poison is in any sense new, there will be more or less of public outcry among the vulgar.

When we find these symptoms we know that the quill was a good one and that the virus has taken. If we look and do not find them, we have to try again,—for if we do not vaccinate with viritating truth from time to time, we shall by and by have a confluent eruption of unbelief and demoralization that will leave the fair souls of our children covered with scars and seams, such as we see on the features of old world emigrants who have been brought up in the good old fear of "poison."

All of us, I suppose, are accustomed to clamors such as I have referred to. We do not mean that the recollection of them shall in the slightest degree interrupt the cheerfulness or even the hilarity of this occasion. We have met to exchange our views, our experience, our hopes, and especially our good feelings. I say we. And there are few words in the language harder to define. For we does not mean a body that is necessarily one in all its special sympathies; and yet, I trust and believe we are one in certain most important respects. What is it, then, that gives us a right to use this little mighty monosyllable, one of the mightiest of all words, for it is the symbol of that union in which lies the strength of humanity and the hope of the future? May I venture to mention some few principles in which it is probable that most of us would agree?

We are, in the first place, the protestants of Protestantism. We protest against a theory of human nature, which lowers man to a worm in every capacity but that of a sinner, and for that endows him with the powers and the responsibilities of an archangel. We protest against a theory of the Divine government so monstrous that to reconcile it with the principles of honor and right, and to justify the ways of God to man, it drives its advocates to the supposition that men are resuscitated demons, and so falls back upon the legends of heathens and barbarians.

I trust, also, that there is a general agreement among us on the following points:

We believe in vital religion, or the religion of life, as contrasted with that of trust in hierarchies, establishments and traditional formula settled by the votes of wavering majorities in old councils and convocations.

We believe in evangelical religion, or the religion of glad tidings, in distinction from the schemes that make our planet the ante-chamber of the mansions of eternal wo to the vast majority of all the men, women and children that have lived and suffered upon its surface.

We believe that every age must judge the Scriptures by its own light; and we mean, by God's grace, to exercise that privilege without asking permission of Pope or Bishop, or any other human tribunal.

We believe that sin is the much-abused stepdaughter of ignorance, and this not only from our own observation, but on the authority of Him whose last prayer on earth, as recorded by the Good Physician, was that the perpetrators of the greatest crime on record might be forgiven, for they knew not what they were doing.

We believe beyond all other beliefs in the fatherly relation of the Deity to all his creatures, and wherever there is a conflict of Scriptural or Theological doctrines, we hold this to be the article of faith that stands supreme above all others.

And lastly, we know, that whether we agree precisely in these or any other articles of belief, we can meet in Christian charity and fellowship, in that we all agree in the love of our race, and the worship of a common Father, as taught us by the Master whom we profess to follow.

Let me add a few remarks on the special position of the liberal Christians of this country. Unitarianism, which is a popular name under which they are included, has been very lately advertised by a bookseller as a failure; this meaning that he had a volume of poems to sell during the anniversary holidays. Unitarianism is only a form in which religious faith has crystalized, and progress consists in the perpetual alternation of solution with crystaline deposition. What were the spires of the middle-age cathedrals—of Strasburg, and Antwerp, and Salisbury—but the acicular, the needle-shaped crystals of a faith over-saturated with its symbols? They must disappear in the remorseless solvent of religious progress, but only to re-form in the diamond facets of a many-sided, humanizing Christian culture. So must the special forms of every faith be acted upon by the perpetual washing of a flowing civilization against it; but if its angles are rounded, it is only because that civilization holds them in solution.

There are too many lessons that remain to be taught by "Unitarianism" for it to change its form, largely as it has lent to the religious current of the time. It must teach its lesson of charity to all creeds so far as they meet the wants of the individual soul, and war against all who would throw their lasso at the neck of human freedom, were it but as a spider's thread to the might of SAMSON yet unshorn.

It is in democracy, let me rather say unimpeded humanity, aided as it always is, when let alone, by the blessing of Heaven, that the future of religion rests. Every government the world has seen before our own has had the vis inertiæ in its pay; we alone have dismissed that blind and palsied slave from the sacred office he has held so long.

Chained as we are by our human reason, we do not yet know the length of our chain. If we move boldly on to the right, it will unwind in an ever growing spiral; if we creep round to the left, our path will wind up in ever-narrowing coils, until we find ourselves at a charred and blackened pillar, with our feet on the cold ashes of the martyrs.

We, who believe in a nobler future than the world has yet seen, can afford to possess our souls in patience. This fatal instinct of the American people, to be perpetually coming back to first principles, is death to the permanent reign of every usurpation over the consciences as over the civil liberties of men. Whenever you shall see ecclesiastical bodies forgetting their old quarrels and fighting side by side, you may hope that it is a Christian love, but you must suspect that it is only the closing up of ranks that have been plowed by shot and shell until their gaps betray their weakness and the bitter necessity of union.

There is so much good in all good men, whatever creed they teach, that we must never forget to love them while we are constrained to differ from them. If any of them are violent against us, let us be patient as the meek and simple minded animals which they drive into the stream to exhaust the batteries of the torpedo, or the cramp fish, as he has been well called. When they have done this they may be taken safely from the water. So with these uncomfortable theological cramp fish whom we must sometimes deal with, let them once discharge their epithets and you may handle them, ugly as they look, ever after with impunity. Be gentle with all that has been venerable in past beliefs, but which is now outworn and in decay. We need not be too forward with the axe where we hear the teredo boring day and night and see the toad-stools growing.

An Improvement in Candles.

From the Scientific American.

There is an old saying that "time tries all;" and surely, if this be true, candles have stood the test of time well, for they were among the earliest inventions of the fathers of our race, and despite burning-fluid, gas and coal-oil, still keep their place as light-givers—a luxury to the rich, a blessing to the poor. Tallow candles are of two kinds, either dipped or molded—the former being the oldest, the latter the best—and they were invented in the middle ages by the Sieur de Brez at Paris. The very name, candle, suggests antiquity, its equivalent or derivative being found in the oldest languages; thus in Persian it is kandil; in Armenian, cantol; in Welsh, canwyll; and in Erse, cainneal. With all this age to support it, however, we must say that the candle is a greasy article, and much given to guttering, and wants snuffing very often; or rather did, for we wish to notice an invention which prevents these evils, and considerably elevates M. Chandelle (as the French call him) in the scale of illuminators. Mr. J. H. TATUM, of No. 497 Broadway, of this City, patented on the 8th of October, of last year, a method of indurating or hardening common candles so that they are in every way equal to spermaceti or the highest priced varieties, without materially increasing the cost. They do not gutter, and a plaited wick can be used, so that they do not require snuffing. We have seen them burn, and were charmed with the pleasant, cool and healthy light they gave.

Mr. TATUM'S process is simple in the extreme; the candle of common "stock," when molded or dipped in the usual way, is immersed in a vat of liquid fat and gums of such a nature that it adheres to the tallow, and forms a thin coating outside it; and then the candle is dipped in another composition, whose base is stearic acid, which will not itself adhere to tallow, but will adhere to the intermediate composition. This gives the candles an indurated coating, which, being fusible at a much higher temperature than the tallow, causes the candle to burn with a beautiful cup-shape, prevents guttering, and improves the light. All grease is prevented; and on the hottest day they will remain as hard and clean as in Winter.

This improvement is a valuable one to the candle trade, as it will give an excellent appearance to any "stock," and greatly improve the quality of the candles in their illuminating power and salableness, besides extending their use, and giving them greater facilities to replace burning fluid.

We are told by philosophers, (and they ought to know,) that the progress of the ages is developed in the most minute details of life. So we suppose that Macbeth, when next he calls, "What no! there, lights!" instead of being served with torches, will be answered by an army of indurated candles.

LAW REPORTS.

The Mail Robbery Case.

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONER'S COURT

Before United States Commissioner Bridgham.

The examination of Edward Jackson, charged with attempting to rob the United States Mail, on the 18th inst., on the Erie Railroad, near Port Jervis, and also for assaulting the Mail Agent and threatening to shoot him, took place yesterday before Mr. Commissioner BRIDGHAM. The testimony was interesting, particularly that of the Mail Agent, which details the particulars of the case. Mr. Dwight, Assistant United States District Attorney, prosecuted the case for the Government, and Messrs. Philip and Guttman acted as counsel for the defence.

Adam Keck, witness for the prosecution, sworn—I live in Cincinnati, and am running as mail agent between New-York and Cincinnati, by the New-York and Erie Railroad; I have the custody of the United States mails; have had so since last August; I left New-York May 18 at twenty minutes after five P. M.; there is a car provided for the conductor of the mails; I was with that and with the mails, having the mails in the car; I was out of the car for only a few minutes, between Middleton and Otisville; Mr. Covert is the express messenger in the car, and I left him there when I went out; we arrived at Port Jervis at five minutes to nine P. M., Covert and myself being in the car; shortly after we left Port Jervis, Mr. Covert went out; after he had gone, I gathered my shawl, laid it on the box belonging to the express and lay down; in a short time I got into a doze, and the first that I knew something dropped on my face, which I supposed was water; being aroused by this, I was aware of the smell of something which I knew was calculated to stupefy me, and which I now know to be chloroform; I sprang up, and seeing a man standing over me, took no time to consider, but sprang right on him and seized him by the arms; we tussled there some time; finally he put his hand in his pocket and pulled a pistol, and said he would shoot; as he pulled it, I grabbed it in my left hand, and fortunately my thumb went on the hammer; we tussled so some time, till I got him down, and I commenced punching him with my right hand, still hanging on to the pistol with my left; the man said once or twice, "For God's sake don't kill me;" I punched him hard in the face till he released his hold of the pistol and lay perfectly quiet; I supposed that I had knocked the breath out of him; I then got up and pulled the bell cord, and slid open the car door to call for assistance; while I was doing this the man got the other side door open opposite; I saw him at the door, but by the time I got across he had jumped out; when the man jumped the train was going four to six miles an hour; the train stopped and men came up; five or six big drops of the chloroform fell on my face; the person was right over my head when I rose; there was a conductor's lamp sitting on the floor about five feet from me; when search was made there was a slung-shot found just beside the box on which I lay, perhaps eighteen inches above my head, and remnants of a bottle which had been broken in the tussle; there was an overcoat found in one of the closets, in which was a bottle of brandy and a roll containing a piece of silk oil-cloth, also a piece of gutta percha cloth, and a string of roll packing cord. The pistol I gave to Mr. Covert; it was a revolver of five barrels and loaded; a piece of sponge was also found about three inches long and one and a half wide; the light from the lantern enabled me to discern objects distinctly five or ten feet.

Question—How long was it from the time the drop fell on your face until you seized the man? Answer—"Time? Not long; I seized him by both arms; I knew it was life or death; as I sprang up and caught him, I said, "You son of a b—h;" he said nothing until he said, "I'll shoot;" I should recognize the person if I saw him again; I have seen the person since—there he is, the defendant; I had no question when I first saw him what he was there for.

Witness then described the interior construction of the car, and the position of the mail-room and said, "It is a rule to order out all persons who come into the car, unless they are employes; I think the car is labelled 'U. S. Mail;' after we left New-York, a young man came in and asked for a match to light his cigar; he got it and went out; no other person came in, with the exception of Mr. Covert, till the affair was over; we had stopped at five places before that happened; a cap was found where the man was over me; I was not affected by the chloroform then, but afterwards for two or three days my throat was sore."

The witness was cross-examined by the prisoner's counsel, but no new facts were elicited. The slung-shot found in the car was produced. It was a canvas bag with shot inside and a leash.

Charles Hoyt, station agent on the Erie Road at Otisville, was sworn, and testified that defendant came to his station and purchased a ticket on the 19th May, between quarter to four and quarter-past four P. M.; he had a handkerchief over his left eye.

Henry Quarters, a colored man, who lives four miles from Otisville, identified defendant as the man who rode with him about a mile and a half in going to that place. He said he walked "sorter lame" and seemed hurt; he asked to ride; he took him on and put him down at the station about half-past three o'clock P. M.

Thomas Gamaer, who lives at Cudderbackville, Orange County, a tavern-keeper, identified defendant as the person he saw on a canal-boat between his place and Port Jervis on Thursday, and afterwards walking on the turnpike. He had a black eye, and thought he saw scratches on his face.

George Willets, Conductor on the Erie Railroad, testified to having defendant on his train from Port Jervis on Thursday, May 19, P. M.; defendant had a ticket for New-York, but wanted to get off at Paterson; I would not permit him to do so, as I had heard of the affair, and suspected the person; I gave him in arrest at Jersey City, where we arrived.

Andrew J. Gamaer, a merchant at Port Clinton, seven miles from Port Jervis, testified that defendant bought a cap and shirt of him on Thursday the 19th.

The coat and cap which were found in the car were produced and the prisoner ordered to put them on. They were found to fit him.

John P. Russel knew defendant; had seen him wear a coat very similar to this; also a cap like this at his store in Maiden-lane; saw him on the afternoon of Wednesday in Maiden-lane.

Edward L. Covert—I was express messenger on this train; I had stepped into the baggage car, for a moment, when this affair occurred; was not gone more than five or ten minutes when I heard Keck shouting from the door; when I got into the mail car no one was there except Keck; there were signs of a great struggle; the express boxes were all tumbled about, and some paper boxes among the rest were perfectly smashed up; there were fragments of a bottle ground to powder; I found there this sponge, slung shot and cap; Mr. Keck gave me this pistol; the engineer discharged one barrel; (the pistol was here produced, and found to be a five-barrelled revolver, four barrels loaded with ball;) this overcoat was brought out from the closet at the end of the car by a brakeman and delivered to me; there was sufficient light in the car to see everything distinctly, from this lantern, by which I do all the Express business, writing, &c.

The Commissioner ordered the prisoner committed to await the preparation of the necessary order for remitting him to the Eastern District of Pennsylvania for trial, the offence having been committed in that State. He was committed to the Tombs.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT—MAY 27.

Before Judge Nelson.

HEAVY BAIL.

John Graham vs. Lewis H. Meyer.—An order of arrest was issued in this action to-day on the application of the plaintiff, directing the Marshal to arrest the defendant and take bail in the sum of $250,000. The defendant was arrested and gave bail, the undertaking being executed by Frer. Schuchardt, Geo. W. Hennings, Robert J. Dillon, Chas. Luling, Augt. Mollmann, G. Mosh, J. H. Schefer, Herman Marcus and Thads. H. Lane.

DUTIES OF COMMISSIONER—EXAMINATION OF PARTY ARRESTED.

The United States vs. Charles Worms & John Reiger.—These parties were arrested for smuggling and were brought before a Commissioner, and by him committed for examination, but no day fixed on the warrant for their examination, and the parties lay in jail until the matter was brought before Judge Nelson on a motion for their discharge.

NELSON, J.—The above defendants were arrested in March last on a charge of smuggling, and were committed, on the preliminary warrant for examination, for an indefinite time. They remained in prison without any steps taken for an examination till the case was brought before me in April, having then been in prison from one to two months.

I directed that the examination should take place immediately, or I would discharge them from custody.

The commitment, in the first instance, was erroneous, as it should have been for a short fixed period of time. In these cases of arrest and preliminary examination pending the hearing before the Commissioner, the commitment, with a view to the hearing of the testimony on behalf of the Government, should be for a time certain, and, unless on special cause shown, except at the request of the prisoner, should not exceed the period of twenty-four hours. And in case a cause shown, on the part of the Government for further delay to procure testimony, great diligence should be required in the procurement; and, in case of neglect, it is the duty of the Commissioner to discharge the prisoner. It is the special duty of the officers who have charge of the prosecution to attend to the examination with all reasonable dispatch, as the prisoner is usually kept in close custody during the preliminary examination, and it is wrong, if he is ready for the hearing, that he should be kept in confinement an hour beyond the time reasonably necessary for a full investigation of the crime charged. We think the imprisonment in the present case exceedingly exceptionable, and the indefinite imprisonment under the warrant altogether irregular. We refrained from discharging the parties, the Government having agreed to a speedy hearing of the case.

DUTY ON COTTON HOSE—TARIFF ACT OF 1857.

Frederick W. Rumer et al. vs. Augustus Schell.—NELSON, J.—The question in this case, and nine others, arises under the Tariff act of March 3, 1857. The goods, the duties upon which are in controversy; are colored hosiery composed wholly of cotton, consisting of gloves, stockings, and the like. Cotton hosiery is said to be divided into bleached, unbleached and colored. The article is sometimes colored in the piece, and sometimes in the yarn, before being made up, or manufactured. All colored cotton hosiery is either printed, painted or dyed. Unbleached goods are the brown goods which have not gone through the process of bleaching, and are not usually colored.

Under the Tariff act of July 30, 1846, the goods in question were classed under schedule (E) as follows: "Caps, gloves, leggins, mits, socks, stockings, wove shirts and drawers, made on frames, composed wholly of cotton, worn by men, women and children," and were subject to a duty of twenty per cent. ad valorem. The Tariff act of 1857, first section, reduced the duty upon articles under schedule (E) to fifteen per cent., "with such exceptions as are hereinafter made." The second section provided, "That all manufactures composed wholly of cotton, which are bleached, printed, painted or dyed, &c.," shall be transferred to schedule (C) in the Act of 1846, which schedule, under that act was subject to a duty of thirty per cent., but reduced by the act of 1857 to twenty-four per centum. The controversy, therefore, here, is whether the goods in question are subject to a duty of fifteen or twenty-four per centum. It is claimed on the part of the importers that the goods remain under schedule (E) of the act of 1846, and, of course, subject only to the reduced rate of duty of fifteen per cent.—the Government, that they have been transferred by the language used in the second section of the Act of 1857 to schedule (C,) and therefore subject to the twenty-four per cent. duty. We think the latter the soundest construction of the Act. The words fall directly within the description: "All manufactures composed wholly of cotton, which are bleached, printed, painted or dyed." The Legislature designates the article by special description as contradistinguished from a designation by its commercial name; and the inquiry is as to its qualities and characteristics with a view to ascertain if it comes within the description. If it does, no argument can take it out of the rate of duty which has been imposed.

It is said that there are various manufactures composed wholly of cotton, bleached, printed, painted or dyed, other than cotton hosiery, such as muslins, lawns, calicoes, velvets, handkerchiefs, &c., to which the clause applies, and such is the proof in the case. But, if the hosiery in question comes equally within the description we see no reason for distinguishing these goods from those above referred to, and which it is admitted fall within the section.

It is argued also that the addition in the particular enumeration of the articles in schedule (E) of the Act of 1846—"made on frames" and "worn by men, women and children"—restrains the second section from an operation and effect that would comprehend any one article found in the enumeration. We think not. If the subsequent amendatory act adopts language that embraces any one or all of the articles enumerated, it must prevail, and be regarded as changing the law. The first section of the Act of 1857, which reduced the rate of duty upon goods under schedule (E) contemplated exception to the general reduction of the rate, and therefore added, "with such exceptions as are hereinafter made." These exceptions are found in the next section, and the very first is the one in question; "all manufactures composed wholly of cotton, which are bleached, printed, painted or dyed"—which article as thus described, under whatever schedule arranged in the Act of 1846, is transferred to schedule (C,) and subject to a duty of twenty-four per centum. The section goes on, and in this way makes many other exceptions. The first one, as we have said, embraces, in terms, the goods in controversy. Some question is made as it respects the powers of the Secretary of the Treasury under the Act of 1857, over rates of duty. We do not deem it important in this case to look into that question. We must say, however, that under the fifth section of the Act of 1857, we do not see that the importer is competent to institute a suit against the Collector to recover the excess of duty, or penalty paid for alleged under valuation, without having first appealed to the Secretary, according to the requirements of that section, but must bring his suit within the time limited.

In some of these cases, the goods were at first admitted at the rate of fifteen per cent. duty, and sent to the warehouse, and the duty secured according to law; and when the goods were afterwards withdrawn, the duty was raised to the twenty-four per cent. This is supposed to be illegal. But the mistake of the Collector, in not charging the proper rate of duty, did not disable the Government from collecting the legal rate, nor the Collector from correcting his error; nor did the mistake release the importers from an obligation imposed by law.

And as the Collector had the means of enforcing the payment of the legal rate, it was his duty to exact it before he parted with the goods. Even if he had parted with them without the payment of the duty, the importers would have been liable to an action by the Government, to recover them.

It is said that, in some of the cases, the duty of twenty-four per cent. was imposed upon a small quantity of hosiery which was unbleached. If this be so, the Collector must return the excess, under the arrangement by the counsel. In looking through the several cases, however, the only appeals to the Secretary were in cases of hosiery, bleached, and I infer, therefore, that no question was made in respect to the unbleached article.

Judgment for the defendant, with costs.

For plaintiff, Mr. McCulloh; for defendant, Mr. Sedgwick.

THE GARDINER CLAIM—MOTION FOR REVIEW.

Judge HALL has sent down his decision in the following matter, heard before him in March last:

The United States vs. Thomas C. Fields, Public Administrator of the City of New-York and Administrator of George A. Gardiner, deceased.—The attorney of the United States for this District having in the lifetime of George A. Gardiner filed a bill in this Court against said Gardiner and the New-York Life Insurance and Trust Company, and procured the service of a subpœna and injunction upon the Trust Company as the depository of the moneys sought to be recovered by the United States on the ground that they had been fraudulently obtained by Gardiner under the Mexican Claims Commission, and having filed a bill of revivor in this suit, applied for an order for the revival, &c, under the last-mentioned bill.

This application was resisted by the defendant, and it appearing that Gardiner, the defendant in the original suit, had never appeared therein, or ever been served with process, I am of the opinion that a bill of revivor is not proper, and that the application for the order sought by the Attorney of the United States, must be denied. The following authorities are I think decisive of the case, and they will sufficiently indicate the course proper to be pursued. (3d Daniels, Ch. Pr. 1673, 1698, 1707, 1708; 2 Barbour, Ch. Pr. 38 and 37; 9 Simons' Rep., 396; 14 do., 21; 16 do., 637; 1 Tamlyn's Rep., 307.)

The motion of the United States Attorney is denied, but without prejudice to any future application for leave to file a supplemental bill, or bill in the nature of a supplemental bill, or to any motion which the United States or the defendant may think proper to make.

For the United States, Mr. Hunt; for defendant, Mr. Tappan.

SUPREME COURT—SPECIAL TERM.

Before Justice W. F. Allen.

Matthew D. Field vs. R. S. Ripley, McConochie and others.—This is an application for an injunction and appointment of a Receiver on dissolution of partnership. The facts in the case were fully stated in yesterday's TIMES. The following is the decision of the Court denying the application:

The plaintiff is not, I think, upon his own showing, entitled to a Receiver of the property in controversy.

First—Ripley is a necessary party to the action, is interested in the funds, and is entitled to be heard in regard to its custody and disposal, pendente lite. The Court will not ordinarily take from a party the custody of his property without notice to him, and giving him an opportunity to show cause against it. A Receiver will not be appointed upon an ex parte application, before the appearance of the defendant, or until he has made default, after service of process, except in cases of emergency. No necessity is shown for immediate action in this case. The care and preservation of the property is not attended with expense. The property itself is not perishable, and it does not appear that delay will be attended with loss or harm to any one. The disposal of the property is restrained by injunction, and if this process of the Court will not protect it, a receivership would be but of little avail. The real property is situated without the jurisdiction of the Court, and the personalty would seem to be also out of this State, as it consists of lead ore, taken from the lands in question, and is not averred to have been brought within the State. Ripley is not subject to the process of the Court, or within its jurisdiction; and it is not entirely clear how, or in what way, unless he comes within the State, or voluntarily appears in the action, this provisional remedy is to be of any avail to the plaintiff. This application is, as against Ripley, strictly ex parte. A Receiver appointed by this Court would not, I think, be able to make title under his appointment, to property in Massachusetts, in the possession of the owner there, who had not been within this State, or in any way made answerable to the process of the Court. The property, if it has not been conveyed to McConochie & Co., and placed under their control, and in their possession, actual or constructive, by the act of the plaintiff and Ripley, or one of them is still in their custody and under their control, so that McConochie & Co. could not if they would put a Receiver in possession of it. But with the affect of the order I have no concern. It is sufficient upon this branch of the motion, that Ripley, who by the order asked for is to be dispossessed of the property, is entitled to notice of the application.

Second—The McConochies are not in a situation to be affected, except incidentally; and as it would interfere with their ability to enforce their lien by the appointment of a Receiver, they are not, therefore, to be called upon to permit the property to go into the hands of a Receiver, except, indeed, it could be made to appear that a Receiver was necessary to secure the payment of their debt, or the appointment was made subject to their rights. Their only present claim to the property, or to the possession or the right to dispose of any part of it, is as creditors, and by virtue of the lien, legal or equitable, created by the contract between themselves and Field & Ripley. It is by way of security only that they can claim any present rights, and it is this present right that it is sought to disturb by the appointment of a Receiver. By the executory contract they may or may not hereafter become owners in common of the mines with the plaintiff and Ripley; but, in anticipation of such event, entirely contingent, it will not answer to interfere with a present vested interest of an entirely different character. The debt of McConochie & Co. is not disputed; the validity of their lien (whether legal or equitable is not material) is not controverted. The plaintiff and Ripley have agreed, by way of receiving the money advances of McConochie, that they will, from time to time, as they raise the ore from the mines and prepare it for market, convey it to their debtors to be disposed of for the payment of their debt. It would require a very strong case to induce the Court to vary this contract, and itself undertake to act by its agents, and receive and dispose of the ore for the benefit of whom it might concern. The plaintiff has a remedy, and may by paying the debt to McConochie & Co. relieve himself, perhaps, from this part of the contract; at least he may place himself in a position in which the merits of the application for a Receiver would be more apparent. The McConochies have performed their part of the contract, and are largely out of pocket, and it would be wrong to deprive them in this summary way, and without some very good reason, of the benefits to which they are entitled, and the security for which they contracted. The motion must be denied, with costs, with leave to renew it, as the plaintiff shall be advised after service of process on Ripley, or after his appearance in the action.

CIRCUIT.

Before Justice Allen.

Gibson vs. Sewall.—This was an action against the defendant as indorser of a promissory note. The defendant set up in his answer that the indorsement was a forgery. He was called as a witness, and testified that he never saw the note till it was presented to him for payment, that he never indorsed it, and that the signature purporting to be his was not written by him or by his authority. The plaintiff introduced evidence tending to show that he had caused the note to be presented to defendant, who had promised to pay it.

The Jury found a verdict for the plaintiff for the full amount claimed.

Mr. Seward for the plaintiff; Schaffer & Dodge for defendant.

Before Justice Clerke.

Bissell vs. Studley.—This is the suit for baggage lost by Studley's express, reported in the TIMES on Thursday. The Jury rendered a verdict for the plaintiff for $316 05. Ten days were allowed defendant to make a case.

CHAMBERS.

Before Justice Sutherland.

ALIEN MINORS MAY ENLIST.

Matter of John Gibbons.—This was an application for the discharge of John Gibbons, who had enlisted in the United States Army, on the ground that at the time of his enlistment he was a minor, and enlisted without the consent of his parents. Mr. Joseph Lovell, on the part of the Government, opposed the discharge. He contended that prior to the act of Congress of 1850, a man could be enlisted at any time between the ages of 18 and 55. By the act of 1850, it was prohibited to enlist a minor without the consent of his guardian: but he claimed that such consent is not necessary when the parents are aliens, and when such is the case, the act of the minor is binding upon him.

The Judge denied the motion for Gibbons' discharge, and ordered him to be removed to the custody of Major Cady. The writ of habeas corpus was dismissed.

THE POLICE CASES.

MAY 27.—The Police cases came up this morning on the motion for a peremptory mandamus to compel the Police Commissioners to restore the members of the old force to back pay and office. The Court room, always too small to accommodate even its regular routine business, was crowded with the "Municipals" who wished to become "Metropolitans." The counsel for the Police Commissioners not being ready, on motion of the counsel the causes were set down for Tuesday next.

Henry Wood vs. George N. Harrington.—In this case the parties appeared by their counsel in Court this morning, and the counsel for the plaintiff stated that Mr. Harrington had published a card in the morning papers, which, though somewhat offensive to Mr. Wood, was satisfactory to him as far as his claim for damages was concerned. Mr. Harrington having acknowledged that an injunction had been obtained against him, preventing him breaking his contract, Mr. Wood did not now wish to prosecute the matter maliciously, and was willing to let it rest as far as he was concerned.

Banks & Hurst and Judge Peabody for plaintiff; Ex-Judge Whiting for defendant.

Before Justice Davies.

McGiffert vs. McGiffert. Lynch vs. Miller et al.—Cases settled on exceptions.

Justice SUTHERLAND said that he was not prepared to discharge the attachment without further consideration. If the order of the Court had been violated, it might be the duty of the Court to enforce the process, although the injured party were willing to withdraw it. He would, however, adjourn the matter until Monday.

Banks & Hurst and Charles A. Peabody for the plaintiff, Jas. R. Whiting for defendant.

SPECIAL TERM.

Before Justice Monerief.

Anson Greene et al., executors, &c., vs. James B. Brady et al.—Motion for a new trial denied, with $10 costs.

Clark C. Wilson vs. Sarah Lewis.—Judgment fo plaintiff for $138 72, and interest from Oct. 15, 1856, with costs, and that a Receiver be appointed, &c.; form of decree to be settled on two days' notice.

John Kinsman vs. The New-York Mutual Insurance Company—David Neumann et al. vs. Israel Ullman.—Motion for a new trial denied, with $10 costs.

Louis Janin vs. John B. Gray.—Report confirmed, and leave granted to prosecute the bond, which was given upon injunction.

TRIAL TERM.

Before Justice Slosson.

SUIT AGAINST THE CITY—EMBANKMENTS ARE NOT PUBLIC ROADS.

Henry Garelus, &c., vs. The Mayor, &c., of New-York.—This case, so far as it had progressed, was reported in the TIMES of yesterday. This morning the Court gave its opinion on the motion of Mr. Dean to dismiss the complaint. Mr. Dean's grounds were: 1. That the deceased, C. D. Bibelga, for whose death the Corporation was now sued, was violating the Sunday law of the State when he met with the accident; and 2. That he was negligent in walking on an embankment, when a sufficient road was provided at the side.

The Court held that the evidence for plaintiff was not sufficient to acquit the deceased from negligence, inasmuch as it did not appear that there was a good justification for his walking on the embankment.

Plaintiff's counsel then prayed leave to introduce supplementary evidence upon this point, and, the Court assenting, they recalled one of their witnesses, who testified that the ordinary foot-path led over the embankment. He stated, however, that there was a carriage-road 9½ feet wide on one side, and a foot-path 2 or 3 feet wide on the other.

The Court did not consider this sufficient, and therefore dismissed the complaint.

For plaintiff, Messrs. Gilbert and Lewis; for defense, Messrs. Busteed and Dean.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM.

Before Chief Justice Bosworth.

Carnes & Haskell vs. A. T. Stewart.—The complaint in this case alleged that the defendant occupied the Brevoort House, corner of Eighth-street and Fifth-avenue, and kept an hotel there from the 14th of April to the 1st of May, 1855, and that he owed plaintiffs for the rent thereof. For this period plaintiffs claim $369 20.

The defendant answers that the hotel was let by plaintiffs to Curtis Judson, and that defendant had nothing to do with it. It appeared in evidence that Judson was the real hirer, but plaintiffs claim that defendant became responsible for him, and as Mr. Judson, as is well known, did not succeed in meeting all his liabilities, they seek to hold the defendant responsible.

For plaintiffs, D. D. Field; for defendant, James T. Brady.

Auction sales are diminishing in number and interest.

Sales have been reported of 18,000 bushels, at 90c. for round Yellow; 93c.@94c. for very choice Yellow Southern; 83c.@88½c. for damaged Southern; and 90c. for mixed Western, ℔ bushel. Rye, Barley and Oats have been in slack request at previous figures. Mr. WM. G. CUTTING notices the week's business in the principal kinds of Breadstuffs, thus: "The market for State and Western Flour has been less animated during the past week, and prices have gradually declined. The demand has been restricted both from the Eastern and local trade, and speculators have shown but little inclination to operate. Yesterday's transactions were to a very limited extent, the market closing quite heavy for common and inferior grades. Southern Flour has been more quiet, closing heavily. Rye Flour has been inactive, and closes dull and heavy. Corn Meal has been more freely offered, and prices have declined. The Wheat Market has been rather quiet for the week past. The demand has been moderate from the trade and millers have bought sparingly, whilst the speculative inquiry has nearly or quite ceased. The tone of the foreign news, regarding the market for Breadstuffs, has had its influence upon the market here, rendering it irregular and unsettled. The transactions yesterday were very limited, and prices entirely nominal. Rye remains quiet, without material change in prices, closing nominal at 97c.@99c. ℔ bushel. Corn continues to be offered freely, and prices are 2c.@3c. ℔ bushel lower, the market closing heavily at 90c.@91c. for mixed Western; 90c.@93c. for Southern White; and 91c.@94c. for Southern and Jersey yellow. Sales have been reported of 370 bbls., in lots, mainly at 51c.@52c. ℔ gallon. The low rates of freight have occasioned a noticeable increase in the demand for common Resin, to arrive and here, at $17 0@$1 72½, and Strained at $1 75 ℔ 310 ℔s.,—within which range the sales reported to-day (about 1,800 bbls.) were effected. No. 3, Everett House, 4th-av. and 17th-st.
Health and Disease only $1.

A BRILLIANT NOVEL.
WE SHALL PUBLISH JUNE FIRST,
SEACLIFF;
OR THE
MYSTERY OF THE WESTERVELTS.
BY J. W. DEFOREST,
Author of "Oriental Acquaintance," European Acquaintance," &c.

This is a story of American life, embracing some features of society and traits of character that are as new as they are striking and natural. The personages introduced are very few in number; and the interest centres in the family upon whom the hero makes a call, in the first chapter. The plot is remarkable for its ingenious simplicity. The reader's curiosity is aroused at the outset by the appearance of a mystery. Each step in the development of the story seems about to disclose the dreadful secret; but the true solution will not be guessed, even by the most inveterate readers of fiction, until the catastrophe comes. The style of the narration is full of spirit, and the various dramatis personæ are finely sketched and contrasted.

SEACLIFF will be, without question, the most fascinating novel of the season.

In one handsome volume, duodecimo, 467 pp., beautifully printed. Price $1 25.

The trade supplied on the usual terms.

Copies sent, postpaid, upon receipt of price.

MUSICAL.

THE DRIGGS PATENT PIANO-FORTE, OR THE VIOLIN PIANO.

It is built upon an iron frame, or bed plate, entirely separate from the case, thus relieving the sound-boards and every other part of the instrument from the strain.

It will remain in tune for many months, and when the strings are settled even for years.

It has convex sounding-boards above and below, like the violin, which are connected together in the same manner, thus making the entire instrument a vibratory shell.

It has greater depth and fullness of tone, and its sostenuto, or power of sustaining the tone, has never been equaled, except by instruments of the violin class.

It improves with age and use, becoming more vibratory, and the tone purer and more sonorous.

It is the best piano-forte existing, and is recommended by Gottschalk, Thalberg, and many other celebrated artists and professors. Sole Agents,
WM. HALL & SON, No. 543 Broadway,
Between Spring and Prince sts.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Our Washington despatches this morning contain a variety of interesting intelligence. It is denied positively that Sir Wm. Gore Ouseley has written a letter to our Government giving an explanation of the reasons which induced him to violate his instructions. Lord Lyons has received no such letter. It is also denied that Lord Lyons has expressed the opinion that the Juarez Government in Mexico will be recognized by the British Minister. A cotemporary is responsible for both these incorrect statements. A diplomatic dinner was given by Secretary Cass yesterday, at which the opinion was generally expressed, founded on dispatches received at the various legations, that the cause of the strange movements of the Austrian troops in Italy was to be found in the fact that the plan of the campaign had been condemned by the Austrian Commanding General, and consequently that Austria had resolved to withdraw all her troops within her own territory that the programme might be remodeled. Up to last evening no official dispatches had been received from Nicaragua, either by our Government or by General Jerez. The latter, however, has received private letters, which state that the Belly contract was approved by the Nicaraguan Congress, only after all the changes were made which were desired.

The returns of the Virginia election are yet very incomplete, and insufficient to enable us to form a definite idea as to the result. The latest dispatch from Richmond, at a late hour last night, announces that the returns are unsatisfactory, but indicate the election of Mr. Letcher by a much reduced majority. We have made up a table of the majorities so far as received in the various counties, in which Mr. Letcher is considerably ahead.

The United States Mail steamship Granada, from Aspinwall on the 18th inst., arrived at this port yesterday, via Havana. She brought two hundred passengers, and a mail from Havana. The news has been anticipated by the arrival of the Moses Taylor.

Havana papers to the 22d, by the Granada, contain no news of importance. The Sugar market was quiet. Sales of the week 4,000 boxes, on the basis of 8½ reals for D. S. No. 12. Exports of the week were 37,700 boxes. Molasses was inactive. Exchange on London, 60 days, 14@14½ per cent. premium; New York ditto 1¾@2 per cent. prem.

By the arrival of the steamship Isabel, at Savannah, we learn that a destructive fire occurred at Key West on the 16th inst., which destroyed $25,000 worth of property. One hundred and ten houses were burnt.

The Rev. William H. Odenheimer, D. D., Rector of St. Peter's Church, Philadelphia, was yesterday elected Bishop of New-Jersey by the Protestant Episcopal Convention of that Diocese, which has been in session at Burlington for the last three days. The Rev. Dr. Mahan, who, on the first twelve ballots, had been strongly supported by the clergy, withdrew his name before the thirteenth ballot, upon which the new Bishop was elected. The laity, who had hitherto supported the Rev. Dr. Littlejohn, of Connecticut, supported Dr. Odenheimer on the last ballot almost unanimously. The Convention transacted considerable routine business, raised the salary of the Bishop to $3,000—formerly it was only $2,400 per annum—and adjourned sine die. The consecration of the new Bishop will not take place until after the General Convention, which meets in October, shall have confirmed his election.

The well-known steamer C. Vanderbilt, which was ashore last Winter on Fisher's Island, has been entirely rebuilt and put in perfect order to resume her old place on the Stonington line. She leaves on her first trip at 5 o'clock P. M., Monday, May 30, from Pier No. 2 North River, under command of Capt. D. B. Sturgis.

The examination of Edward Jackson, for the alleged attempt to rob the U. S. mail agent, on the 18th inst., near Port Jervis, Penn., was concluded yesterday, before U. S. Commissioner Bridgham. The principal witness was Adam Keck, the mail agent, who detailed the particulars of the attempt to stupify him with chloroform, and of the fight which took place in the mail car. The affair occurred just as the train passed the Delaware River into Pennsylvania, and must be tried in that State. The prisoner was fully identified, and a warrant made out remitting him to Pennsylvania for trial. Meantime he was committed to the Tombs. Great praise is awarded Mr. Keck for the vigorous manner in which he treated the case. Jackson, it is said, lived in this City, and had a store in Maiden-lane. He is an intelligent looking person, about 30 years of age.

The Police Commissioners met yesterday, but no business of special importance was transacted. Mr. Pillsbury has not yet notified his acceptance of the position of General Superintendent of Police tendered him. The Commissioners express themselves favorable to compromising with those of the old force who have put in claims for back pay, by reinstating such as are willing to waive their claims. The subject of suppressing the sale of liquor on Sunday, and to prevent keeping stores of any kind open, was referred to a committee.

A German shoemaker, Thomas Trisler, was yesterday arrested on suspicion of having murdered his wife, and thrown her down the vault in Columbia-street, where the remains of a woman were found on Sunday last, the mutilated remains which were found being supposed to be those of his wife. The accused gave very conclusive proof of his innocence in the presenting of his wife alive before the committing magistrate. The tragedy is still enveloped in mystery.

Michael Dwyer, indicted for killing Thomas Shields, in a stable in Baltic street, Brooklyn, was yesterday found guilty of manslaughter, fourth degree, in the Court of Sessions, and sentenced to six months' imprisonment in the Penitentiary.

The transactions in Flour yesterday were limited, and prices indicated an average decline of 15c. ℔ bbl. Grain was also lightly dealt in. A moderate inquiry prevailed for Coffee, Sugars and Molasses. Rice was more active. Cotton was quiet. Provisions were less sought after. Hog products were depressed. Other branches of trade exhibited no very important changes.

England and America.

Some of our British fellow-citizens, actuated no doubt by an ignorant but commendable spirit of patriotic enthusiasm, have been considerably exercised in their minds by the observations of the Times upon the attitude which America ought, in the present aspect of European affairs, to assume towards England, and upon the extent of the control which American opinion must henceforth exert upon the action of any English Government. It is difficult for some of our highly respectable cousins to realize the changes which half a century has wrought in the relative positions of England and the United States. For a goodly number of estimable Englishmen, the England of 1859 is still the England of 1815—America still the America of the peace of 1783. The simple assertion of the simple fact that the hostility of America, in the case of a great European coalition against England, would suffice to cut off, as it were, in a day, the vital nerves of English commerce and of English power, puts some of our good kinsmen into a state of slightly irrational wrath. We take, therefore, a purely philanthropic pleasure in calling the attention of our English readers on this side of the water to the language used by the London Times, in relation to this subject, on the 13th of the present month. The London Times has, for some weeks past, been fearfully exercised by the coming terror of a Russo-French invasion, and of a consequent blockade of the English ports. The facts that the allied fleets of Russia and France now outnumbers that of Great Britain in the proportions of 70 steam line-of-battle ships to thirty-four, and of nearly two to one in lesser steam vessels of war, certainly justify some natural anxiety on this head. But the London Times finds a consolation, and a hope for Great Britain—where? In the reserves of English wealth and valor—in the masses of English freemen—in the bulwarks of the British Constitution? Not at all! But in the power of the United States to keep alive the commerce of England, and to make the ocean free to her products. The most warlike of the British journals does not shrink from the confession that in case of a great European onslaught upon England the "business of the British Empire would be conducted by the United States," and that any attempt to crush the freedom of the seas would be made "at the peril of immediate war with the United States." If, then, the Great Republic is thus appealed to by the leading organ of British opinion as the prospective deliverer of England from the most formidable peril that the folly of any English Government has ever risked or invited, we beg leave to suggest to our British friends that the propriety of shaping their policy in such a way as to command the sympathy of the United States may well engage their serious attention. The world is large, and the whole of civilized Christendom is now pressing busily forward in the career of enterprise and improvement. The London "World's Exhibition" of 1851, wrote this lesson most deeply on the memories of men, that the age of monopoly in mechanical skill and adventurous ability was past, and past forever. A great European war, shutting England out from the markets of the world for five years, would result in developing all over the Continent those industries in which England now leads her sister-nations, and therefore in shaking the whole existing system of commercial relations to its very base. This the best-informed English publicists themselves admit. Can it, therefore, be considered an extravagance for America, now the best customer and most important friend of England, to insist that the views and feelings of the American people shall count for at least as much, in deciding the policy of any English Government, as the notions of a knot of European diplomatists? By the admission of the London Times itself, America holds in her hand the keys of England's prosperity or England's prostration, in the event of a Continental war. We must therefore suffer more than any other people by a false or foolish move on the part of England, and who shall be heard in the British councils if not the United States, upon whose friendship or whose hostility the decisive aspect of affairs must at last depend?

Santa Anna in Mexico.

The periodicity of disease, as insisted upon by eminent medical authorities, is nowhere more conclusively demonstrated, than in the case of that chronic invalid, Mexico. It has its hot and its cold fits; its amendments and its relapses; its invariable round of symptoms, in short, recurring at fixed terms of years to the stages previously traversed, and only varying through the fact of a general and rapid decline. Among the forms of the disorder which may be anticipated with most confidence, the periodical restoration to power of Santa Anna is the most notable. It is only when the sufferer is apparently at the point of death that this particular phase of agony presents itself. Once and again, as factions weary of contending for power which has become worthless, and as the Church sees all minor barriers interposed between its huge savings and the popular cravings, giving way to the urgency of a faithless Liberalism, is the hero of the cock-pit and the cork-leg summoned from his elegant retirement, and placed at the head of affairs.

With this, the one well-established and determined law of Mexican politics before us, there would seem to be no reason to doubt the rumor that comes from New-Orleans to the effect that the Ex-Dictator has been proclaimed at the capital; that his landing is eagerly looked for, and that General Woll, at the head of a stout brigade, has been dispatched in the direction of Tampico, to receive and conduct him to the City of Mexico. In the usual cycle of Mexican history, it is quite time for this scene to recur. Woll is a veteran adherent of the exile; has intrigued desperately for his recall; and only so lately as March returned to Mexico from his leader's retreat, with the avowed purpose of effecting his restoration. It is also to be remembered that the latest authentic advices from the capital announced the immediate likelihood of a change in the reactionary Administration, involving the substitution of some other name for that of Miramon, in the Presidency, that of Zuloaga being suggested. These considerations certainly tend to strengthen the present rumor. On the other hand, the selection of Tampico as the point of debarcation for Santa Anna, involves the capture of that town by the Centralist forces; a task, doubtless, of some magnitude, notwithstanding the absence of Gen. Garza, the Governor of the State, with his troops. In undertaking this enterprise, moreover, the reactionists would be subject to the almost certain danger of encountering the Liberal troops, who are now hovering on both sides of the route, cutting off his communication with the capital, and leaving him at the mercy of the Northern populations, all unanimously hostile to the Church Party. The plot, therefore, if it really exist, can hardly have taken the shape with which the report supplies it. The movement upon Tampico may be a feint to cover the landing of the "coming man" at some other point; or, more probable still, the mere feasibility of the scheme may have suggested the whole story to the inventive imagination of letter-writers. The truth will only be ascertained when the details of intelligence brought by the Tennessee shall come to hand next week.

Genius and Rigmarole.

What humane mind can have refused to sympathize with Mr. Paul Morphy, on reading the accounts of the ovation to which he was subjected, at the instance of the New-York Chess Club, on Wednesday evening last?

Mr. Morphy unquestionably deserves a recognition at the hands not only of all who love the noble game in which he has approved himself so great a master, but also of all who know how to honor the quiet gallantry of an unobtrusive American gentleman, who has won for himself the crown of Philidor and Labourdonnais, without ceasing to be a man of sense, character and magnanimity. Let Mr. Morphy then, by all means, hold levees of his admiring fellow-citizens. Let him be honored with mimic armies of silver and gold, on battle-fields of ebony and pearl; with diamond-mounted watches, and with the sunny smiles of Woman. To all this we cordially assent.

But why should Mr. Morphy's successes be made the occasion for boring himself, and the innocent public of New-York, with dreary disquisitions on the history of Chess since the Deluge, and with blatant glorifications of that unhappy bird, the American Eagle, whose whole existence is one long struggle of escape from those who cling to his tail in the hope of soaring by his pinions? Will it never become possible for us in America to understand the difference between honest eulogy and flagrant "Elijah Pogram;" between the frank, manly, intelligible, modest assertion of merit, and the ridiculous preconization of inconceivable excellencies?

The discourse levelled at Mr. Morphy, on Wednesday evening, by Mr. W. J. A. Fuller, was a perfect specimen of all that a public address of homage offered a modest and intelligent gentleman ought not to be. It was, at the same time, we are sorry to be obliged to say, only an average specimen of the trash in which it has become customary for even superior men to envelope their ideas whenever they appear in public as the organs of any American association or demonstration whatever. It is this painful but eloquent fact alone which makes it worth while for us to dwell upon the subject. We ought to confess, however, in addition, that we are moved to do so by an irrepressible feeling of consideration for the victim of all this oratory, who really endured his martyrdom with a calm superiority of good sense which must have enlisted the regard of all present in his favor.

Mr. John Van Buren was the leading orator of the occasion, and resisted the vulgar temptations of his position with singular resolution. Mr. Van Buren, however, is a speaker tried in the double furnace of popular assemblies and private associations. He has learned by sad experience the perils of eloquence, just as Mr. Bumble by sad experience learned the horrors of matrimony. A speech Mr. Van Buren is always ready to make, but he has his own views of the limits within which a gentleman may safely parade his rhetoric.

Like Spenser's Knight, he will be "bold, bold, but not too bold." He gratified the gallery with a few dashing forays upon the field of history, but swiftly covered his more questionable enterprises by a judicious recurrence to the subject before him. He knew that he had a gentleman's office to fulfill, and so fulfilled it in the main like a gentleman. Yet even in the midst of his clearly-worded and happily-illustrated observations, the idea must have suggested itself from time to time to the impatient audience that all this might have been dismissed in fewer words: that the folly of King John of England seven hundred years ago did not particularly explain the victories of Mr. Morphy, of Louisiana, to-day: and that there is a point at which even the Encyclopædia ceases to be of a positively entrancing interest for the mass of mankind.

These are considerations which can hardly have escaped the most thoughtless of listeners, when Mr. Morphy rose with his calm, modest and sensible reply. Not a word of historical reminiscence, not a single grandiose simile adorned this quiet recognition of what was supposed to be a spontaneous compliment. Mr. Morphy was even at the pains of putting his chess-victories in their true light, and with a keen precision of statement, just veiled beneath the delicate proprieties of courtesy, rebuked the tendency of all hero-worshippers to over-value that they honor, by distinguishing the worth of Chess when pursued as a recreation, from its worthlessness when adopted as the chief business of life. Whether the orator who had just been talking in one breath of games of Chess and the great wars of nations as events of equal importance, felt the justice of this protest or not, we of course can only conjecture. It was at least quite thrown away upon another gentleman who had come to the tryst of Mr. Morphy, armed in all the panoply of the rhetoric most approved by "popular assemblies," and who swooped upon his prey immediately afterwards with a wonderful gold watch and a more wonderful oration. Mr. W. J. A. Fuller was more strictly Columbian than Mr. Van Buren. He took up the theme of Mr. Morphy's victories in the style of that famous German philosopher, who, on being commissioned to write the history of the House of Brunswick, filled seven volumes folio with a preliminary sketch of the Creation of Man and the Temptation in Eden. Mr. Fuller began with Alexander on the Nile, and after tracing the "civilization of Europe," by some process original with himself to the fall of the commerce of Egypt, dismissed ten centuries with a wave of his hand, to usher Columbus on the scene, and make him responsible for the foundation in the "cold North" of the Empire whereof in the "order of Providence New York has become the metropolitan centre." Thence Mr. Fuller branched gracefully off into a constitutional history and political philosophy of the United States, to whose institutions he openly attributed Mr Morphy's capacity for playing eight games of chess blindfold, and no doubt secretly referred Mr. Fuller's talent for crowding the universe into an egg-shell. He also indulged in prophecy; in physical geography; in disquisitions on the "alluvial soil of the Mississippi;" on the "classic shades of the elms of New-Haven;" on Whitney's invention of the gin; on the merits of Mr. Morse as a painter of "female beauty;" on the "electric telegraph;" on the yacht America and George Steers; and finally on the American Watch Company, and Mr. Morphy himself. In fact, had Mr. Fuller been a candidate for Congress in some remote district of the West and Mr. Morphy a pet "local question," he could not have been favored with a more lavish profusion of incoherent allusions and impertinent panegyric, than was bestowed upon him in this remarkable address. He was told that "neither in this nor in any preceding age" had there been "any parallel to the proud position at present occupied" by him. He was obliged with the declaration that the genius of Shakespeare "towering as it does with Alpine height above the other Heaven-piercing peaks in the world of letters stands not so utterly alone as the genius of Morphy in chess." And he was flattered by the assurance that Mr. Fuller "insensibly associated him (Mr. Morphy) with the great names to which he (Mr. Fuller) had alluded." With the simple remark that "words of learned length or thundering sound would ill become the nature of the occasion," Mr. Morphy waved aside all this astonishing cataract of declamation, and thanked the friends who had honored him, in language as full of feeling as it was void of pretence. His behavior on this occasion, he may be sure, will be remembered as not the least creditable feature of his brief and brilliant career; and if the egregious contrast of his manly simplicity with the noisy balderdash and verbiage poured out upon his head, shall do anything to deliver his youthful fellow-countrymen from that senseless passion for morbid and extravagant excitements which is our besetting national sin, we shall have no cause to regret the somewhat silly exhibition of Wednesday evening last.

Governor Chase at the Cleveland Meeting.—A meeting of some six thousand persons was held in Cleveland, on the 24th instant, to denounce the Fugitive Slave Law, in view of its enforcement against the Oberlin prisoners. The published call invited all "foes of Slavery and despotism," and stigmatized the proceedings of the District Court as a "despotic usurpation of power." Joshua R. Giddings presided. Among the prominent persons present was Governor Chase, who, upon invitation, addressed the concourse. His remarks were brief and sensible. Concurring with those who heard him in dislike of the Fugitive Law he yet counseled no forcible resistance. On the contrary, his advice was to oppose it through the ballot-box alone, by electing men to Congress and to the Presidency who would repeal it. He did not even assail its constitutionality, but left that question to the proper tribunals, State and Federal. For those who were lying in jail, within the sound of his voice, by reason of having resisted the execution of that enactment, in obedience, as they claimed, to the dictates of their consciences, the Governor had no word of commendation. On the contrary, the tenor of his speech was eminently law-abiding.

Whether Governor Chase's speech came up to the spirit and temper of the meeting we are unable to say. It is represented by the Cleveland papers as having been well received. Certainly its tone and the character of its recommendations were such as became him, both officially and personally. The Fugitive Slave Law is no doubt as odious to him as it can be to any of his auditors, but he nevertheless recognizes the duty of all good citizens to refrain from violence, and to abate bad laws in a lawful manner.

Mayor Wood and Broadway.—The Daily News reiterates the statement that Mayor Wood paid for cleaning Broadway in the Winter of 1855–6 out of his own pocket, and publishes a letter from Mr. Baird, the contractor, to sustain it. The following is undoubtedly the precise state of the case:

> "By the accompanying certificate from Alderman Baird, who removed the obstructions from Broadway, it will be seen that he would not undertake the job until Mayor Wood gave him his personal guarantee of payment; and further, that the Mayor did actually pay the money from his own pocket. Subsequently, and after the expiration of a long period, too, the Comptroller consented to pay the sum back, which he did by giving a warrant to Mr. Baird, who then repaid the Mayor."

This does not essentially differ from our own statement;—Mayor Wood paid the money and afterwards was remunerated by the City.

Sunday Liquor Selling and the Police Commissioners.

A double delegation of citizens, American and German, waited on the Police Commissioners yesterday afternoon, to present memorials on the Sunday Liquor Traffic. Messrs. Pelatiah Perit, James Brown, C. O. Halsted, Norman White, Roswell Sprague, A. B. Neilson, James W. Beekman, and other well-known gentlemen, with Messrs. Moller, Riecher, and other Germans, composed the delegation.

Mr. Perit, in presenting the memorial briefly stated its objects, and expressed the hope that, so far as they came within the scope of the Department, they would be carried out.

Mr. Bowen thought the responsibility for the existing state of things was largely with the magistracy and the prosecuting officers. Numerous complaints had already been made which had not been prosecuted. He was not certain as to the power of the Police to arrest offenders against the Sunday Liquor Laws.

Mr. White said the evils of the traffic under consideration were so obvious, and affected so deeply the moral condition of the City, that the Press and the public would demand, or they had a right to demand, the execution of the laws. Surely, the magistrates would not obstruct their enforcement, with overwhelming proofs that while they were left in neglect all law was comparatively powerless. He directed the attention of the Commissioners to the City ordinance of 1855, which makes every Sunday sale of liquor a misdemeanor; to the Excise Law of 1857, which provides a penalty of $50 for each offence, either of selling on any day without a license, or of selling on Sunday if licensed, and makes it the duty of every policeman to arrest offenders; to the Metropolitan Police Act, which affixes a fine of $50 to every Sunday sale, and requires the Police Board to execute the laws protecting the Sabbath; and to the statute prohibiting all traffic on that day, under a penalty of confiscation of the goods exposed for sale, whether liquors or dry goods.

When distinguished strangers visit our City, we are proud to exhibit our humane and reformatory institutions, and point to the ample provisions of our Almshouse, and kindred establishments, as proofs of benevolent forethought. Would it not be a prouder monument could we, by abating the causes of pauperism, and the temptations to crime, show that Almshouse accommodations and Municipal Jails were comparatively needless?

The memorialists are the more encouraged to seek protection and relief from the evils of the Sunday liquor traffic, on account of the readiness heretofore manifested by this Department to comply with all reasonable requests of citizens to suppress crime and abate public nuisances.

There is little room to doubt what the action of the Commissioners will be when the Committee to whom the memorial was referred, present their report. The case is as clear as the alternative between anarchy and order. No law has power, and no Executive Department is entitled to respect so long as a class-interest defies both, and depredates without restraint on the property and moral interests of the City.

Central Park Extension.—A Board of Commissioners of Appraisement is now to be appointed by the Supreme Court to appraise the property which is to be added to the Central Park, in con[illegible] One Hundred and Tenth streets, and extending from the Fifth to the Sixth avenues. Property [illegible] interested in this matter will see by an [illegible] that a meeting has been called by the "[illegible] Estate Improvement Association" for [illegible] of nominating six suitable persons for Ap[illegible], from whom three Commissioners are [illegible] by the Supreme Court.

The New Bishop of New-Jersey.

The question of the successorship to the late Bishop of New-Jersey has been happily settled by the election of the Rev. Wm. H. Odenheimer, D. D., of Philadelphia, to the Episcopal office. This choice is understood to be the result of a compromise between the High and the Low Church parties, the opinions of the Bishop elect inclining to the Oxford standard, but yet not so decidedly and intolerantly as to render him unacceptable to the Evangelical school. Dr. Odenheimer is about forty-four years of age, an accomplished scholar, an able writer, a chaste and eloquent pulpit orator. As rector of St. Peter's, Philadelphia, he has acquired the warmest regard and respect of one of the most intelligent congregations in that city. There is little doubt that the interests of the diocese, so indefatigably promoted by the late Bishop, and the educational institutions which he founded, will not be suffered to decline in the hands of Bishop Odenheimer.

Academy of Music.

Donizetti's opera of "Il Poliuto" was played here last night for the second time to a magnificent house. Few operas have been produced of late years so well calculated to take a prominent place in the répertoire. It is a work essentially popular in its character, with abundant items for the public taste, and opportunities for three good singers. Played as it is now in a thoroughly satisfactory manner, there is little to be desired. The part of the heroine is excellently sung by Mlle. Piccolomini; Brignoli surpasses himself in Polyutus, an Amodio is admirable as Severus. The advantages of increased familiarity with the music were noticeable last night; the time of performance being somewhat shorter and the enjoyment much more complete. The magnificent finale to the second act was rendered superbly and brought down the house with a tumult of applause.

The eminent success of the opera has induced Mlle. Piccolomini to select it for her benefit on Monday. To-day there will be a sumptuous Matinée—the whole of "Don Giovanni," and an act of "Lucia," with Mr. Henry Squires as Edgardo.

Madame de Wilhorst, with a portion of this company, will commence a concert tour on Monday, at New-Haven, returning to the City in a few days.

Wallack's Theatre.—Mrs. Hoey, the best of actresses and a lady too well appreciated to need commendation, takes her benefit here to-night. Boucicault "London Assurance" and the "Bold Dragoon" will be played. There will, we trust, be an adequate recognition of Mrs. Hoey's claims on the amusement community.

The Italian Relief Fund.

The Italian Committee beg leave to caution the public against any person who may solicit subscriptions to the fund proposed to be raised for the benefit of the families of Italian soldiers, unless they are furnished with a subscription book with the autograph signatures of the president and treasurer of the Committee, as these books alone, not the circulars, authorize collections.

The subscribers are respectfully requested to sign their names in the book presented, or to send their contributions directly to the office of the Treasurer, O. Fabbricotti, Esq., No. 34 Beaver-street. Should the name of any subscriber be omitted in the list soon to be published in the papers, he will please inform the Committee of the omission.

Whoever has made any collections in the name of the Committee is requested to pay in the same at the office of the Treasurer and apply for a subscription book.

All papers will confer a favor by copying the above notice. For the Committee,

V. BOTTA, President.

New-York, Friday, May 27, 1859.

Police Commissioners.

THE APPOINTMENT OF GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT—REINSTATEMENT OF THE OLD POLICE—SABBATH VIOLATIONS, &C.

The Police Commissioners met in secret session at 2 P. M. yesterday, all the Commissioner being present, and President Stillman in the Chair.

The Clerk announced that no reply had yet been received from Mr. Pillsbury to the letter sent informing him of his appointment as General Superintendent of Police. The Board took no action upon the matter.

A discussion took place regarding the reinstallment of the old Police and their claims for back pay. A majority expressed themselves favorable to reinstating those who would waive their claims. It was stated that eight had been re-appointed with this understanding. The subject was referred to the Committee on Rules and Regulations, consisting of Commissioners Ulshoeffer, Bowen and Stranahan.

The Board was waited upon by several members of the Sabbatarian Committee. Peletiah Perit, Esq., led the delegation. A petition was presented soliciting the Board to take immediate action to suppress liquor-selling on Sunday and keeping stores open.

Mr. Perit briefly explained the objects of the memorial, and expressed the hope that they would be carried out as far as it lay in the power of the Commissioners to enforce compliance therewith.

Commissioner Bowen gave it as his opinion that the existing state of things was mainly the fault of the magistracy and prosecuting officers. There had been a large number of complaints made, which had not been prosecuted. He had some doubt as to the power of the Police to arrest offenders against the Sunday liquor laws.

Mr. Norman White, one of the Committee, urged that the evils of selling liquor on Sunday were so obvious and so deeply affected the moral condition of the City that the public and Press would demand, as they had the right to do, the execution of the laws. Under the ordinance of 1855, he insisted every sale of liquor on Sunday was a misdemeanor. The excise law of 1857 imposed a penalty of $50 for every such sale, whether with or without a license, and made it the duty of every policeman to arrest offenders. The Metropolitan Police Act also imposed a fine of $50 for every such violation, and required the Police Board to enforce the law. Aside from all this, he contended that the State statute prohibited all traffic on Sunday under penalty of the confiscation of goods, whether liquors or dry goods.

On motion the subject was referred to the Committee on Laws and Ordinances.

Officers Harrington and Sweeny, of the First Ward, were dismissed from the Department for fighting in the Station-house. Officer John C. Harris, of the First Precinct in Brooklyn, sent in a letter of resignation, which was accepted.

The Board adjourned for one week.

The great trotting match in prospect between Flora Temple and Ethan Allen, for a purse of $2,000, to come off on Tuesday, May 31, is already creating considerable excitement in the turf circle, and from all the signs at present a very lively time may be expected. Heavy sums of money are invested on the result. Flora is the favorite, from the fact of her keeping the money bet on her among the turfmen in New-York.

Bonner and Morphy.—From the following letter it will be seen that our great chess champion has become, like the British champion, Staunton, who had not the courage to meet him in a contest, a chess editor:

St. Nicholas Hotel, May 27, 1859.

Robert Bonner, Esq.—Dear Sir: The offer you have made me to edit a chess department in the New-York Ledger is so exceedingly liberal that I do not feel at liberty to decline it. I will commence my contributions some time during the month of June next, and shall furnish chess matter to no other newspaper. Truly yours, PAUL MORPHY.

Captain McKinley Indicted for Manslaughter.—The United States Grand Jury, now in session at Indianapolis, Ind., have found a true bill of indictment against Capt. Wm. McKinley, of the steamer David Gibson, for manslaughter, caused by the sinking of the Nat. Holmes and David Gibson, near Aurora, a short time since, by which accident a number of lives were lost. Benj. Crawford, of Pittsburgh, the Supervising Inspector for this District, was instrumental in getting the testimony in this case before the Grand Jury. The indictment is founded on the law of Congress passed in 1838, 12th section, and reads as follows:

> That every Captain, Engineer, Pilot, or other persons employed on board of any steamboat or vessel propelled in whole or in part by steam, by whose misconduct, negligence or inattention to his or their respective duties the life or lives of any person or persons on board said vessels may be destroyed, shall be deemed guilty of manslaughter, and upon conviction thereof before any Circuit Court in the United States, shall be sentenced to confinement at hard labor for a period of not more than ten years.

Captain McKinley left for Kansas several weeks since, on the steamer Colonna. The United States Marshal has left in pursuit of him. Capt. McK. is a resident of Newport, Ky., and well known along the line of the Western waters.

Great Test of Safes by Fire,

IN OSHKOSH, WISCONSIN.

The public are invited to read the following certificates, which prove beyond question that the justly-celebrated

LILLIE'S CHILLED AND WROUGHT-IRON SAFES are the most perfect protection from fire, and, with their now universally admitted burglar-proof qualities, are confidently recommended to all who desire to purchase "the best Safe made."

Certificates are also appended showing how Safes of other manufacturers stood the test in the same fire:

Mr. Lillie— Oshkosh, May 11, 1859.

Dear Sir: You have, without doubt, learned of the great fire that visited our place last night, destroying the business part of our city; and, as I think you would be pleased to know how the Safe I purchased from you stood the test, I take the liberty of sending you an account of it. There was no attempt made to move the safe from the burning building, as was the case with other Safes, and it was left at the mercy of the fire for more than nine hours, and when I opened the Safe the money and papers in the drawers were in as perfect a condition as when placed there. The books were all legible, though the binding was somewhat soiled. I am satisfied, from examining the contents of this and other manufacturers which were in the fire, that you make the BEST FIRE-PROOF SAFE, and, should I start in business again, I shall order one of yours at once.

Truly yours,

(Signed) M. GRIFFIN,

Proprietor of the Oshkosh Hotel that was.

P. S.—As I believe in giving honor to whom honor is due, you are at liberty to use this letter as you see fit.

(Signed) M. GRIFFIN.

Oshkosh, Wis., May 20, 1859.

Gentlemen: In answer to your inquiry in regard to the preservation of my books, papers and watches and jewelry contained in one of S. C. Herring's Patent Champion Safes at the time of the great fire in this city on the 11th inst., I would say that although the Safe was removed to the sidewalk, six feet from the front of my store, THE CONTENTS WERE ALMOST WHOLLY DESTROYED. [Signed] IRVING G. HATCH.

Mr. Lillie— Oshkosh, Wis., May 14, 1859.

Dear Sir: We take the liberty of informing you that our city was visited on the night of May 10, by a great fire, which destroyed six blocks of brick and wooden buildings, each block containing more or less safes of different manufacture. We had one of your No. 7 Safes, which was in a very hot part of the fire. The silver plate and brass knob on the outside of the door were entirely melted, showing that the heat must have been very intense. Yet, when we opened the Safe next day, we found the books perfectly legible, and the money and papers were as good as when they were placed in the Safe. We shall paint the Safe on the outside, and use it again, as we have the utmost confidence in it.

Yours, KENNEDY & VAIL.

Mr. Lillie— Oshkosh, May 14, 1859.

Dear Sir: I have just opened the LILLIE'S SAFE which was in my store that was burned on the night of May 10. As there was a great amount of liquor burned around the Safe, as it fell upon its face, and laid there upon a bed of hot coals, and the papers being put into it the day before the fire in a loose manner, allowing them to fall down upon the door, I expected to find some of them soiled, but to my surprise I found the books and papers in a perfect condition. The lock works as good as new, and all the Safe needs to make it as good as new is a coat of paint outside, which I shall give it, and use the same Safe with as much confidence as ever.

Yours truly,

(Signed) BENJAMIN MERRILL.

Oshkosh, May 14, 1859.

I hereby certify that I have this day examined the contents of one of HERRING'S CHAMPION FIRE PROOF SAFES. Said Safe was moved from the building to the sidewalk before the fire broke out in the store. The jewelry, &c., that was in said Safe was so heated that the owner cannot realize more than from twenty to fifty per cent. on the dollar.

(Signed) THOMAS J. CARTER.

Mr. Lillie— Oshkosh, May 14, 1859.

Dear Sir: In answer to your inquiries in regard to the condition of the books and papers that were in the LILLIE PATENT HOUSE SAFE, which was in the second story of the burning building, it fell to the ground and laid all through the fire. I am happy to say the contents were ALL RIGHT, not having been injured in the least in consequence of the fire. I have painted the Safe, and shall continue to use it, as I have the utmost confidence in your make of Safes. Respectfully yours,

(Signed,) ORVILLE BURCH.

Oshkosh, May 14, 1859.

I hereby certify that I had in my store one of LILLIE'S PATENT SAFES—one of the smallest he makes. It was exposed to the intense heat of my store for several hours, and when I opened it I found the books and papers as good as when they were put in the day before.

(Signed,) CONRAD ERNST.

Children's Needs! Children's Needs!!—Children will be imprudent, will get sick—must be cured. There are two ways to do it. One is coax, wheedle, deceive, scold, whip and choke them with sickening and poisonous drugs, and have them for weeks (if at all) getting up from the evil effects of it. Or, you can give them Humphrey's Specific Homœopathic Sugar Pills, and cure them mildly, pleasantly, safely, and promptly, saving them all the scolding, deceit and cruelty usually practiced. Which is wise? For teething, colic and crying of infants; for worms and their consequences; for diarrhœa, and the dreaded cholera infantum; for dysentery and its often fatal result; for fevers of children; for croup as well as coughs and colds, and numerous other ailments of children, a case of Humphrey's Specifics are infallible. One to five dollars invested in these Specifics will prove a saving of comfort and feelings, as well as money and health.

IN AN ADVERTISEMENT HEADED "United States Circuit Court—H. B. Goodyear vs. New-York Gutta Percha Comb Company," and purporting to be signed by C. M. Keller, Esq., for plaintiff, and George Gifford, Esq., for the defendant, it is stated "that the cause came on for a trial on the 19th of May inst., and that the jury returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff, sustaining the validity of the patents."

These statements are well calculated, and were no doubt intended, to create the false impression that a real litigation between the parties mentioned had terminated in favor of the plaintiff, when in truth there was no trial whatever.

By an arrangement, an inquest was taken, the defendant offering no evidence and making no defence.

This verdict thus paraded by advertisement has therefore determined nothing.

Whenever a suit is instituted by Mr. Goodyear against the Company I represent, or against those who sell its goods, a real defence will be made, which, as I am advised by counsel, will be sustained by the verdict of a jury.

ANOTHER REMARKABLE CURE BY HYATT'S LIFE BALSAM.

I suffered for nine years from an ulcer, the result of an abrasion of the skin, which discharged constantly pieces of bone, and for which some of our greatest physicians could find no name, nor could they in the least give me any relief. HYATT'S LIFE BALSAM,

I procured some of it, and experienced immediate relief and now deem myself recovered. I have recommended the LIFE BALSAM for similar complaints and rheumatism, that it has cured. It is indeed a LIFE BALSAM. MRS. MARTIN, Melrose, N. Y.

ANOTHER GREAT ENGAGEMENT.

The proprietors of the NEW-YORK MERCURY respectfully announce the engagement of the celebrated author, Dr. J. H. ROBINSON, universally acknowledged to be the only truthful delineator of FAR WESTERN TRAPPER LIFE.

His Opening Tale for the THE MERCURY is now nearly completed, and he believes it to be the best he has yet written. The following announcement from the author's graceful pen will be greeted with enthusiasm by his tens of thousands of admirers:

A CARD.

TO THE READERS OF "BUCK BISON," "NICK WHIFFLES," "ONE-EYED SAUL," &c.

To those who have followed my heroes and heroines over the Western Trail, and to the far trapping-grounds of the Great North, I beg leave to announce that I am now engaged in preparing another Serial, the scenes of which transpire in the same wild latitudes, and which I shall endeavor to render worthy the attention of my former readers. It will be perceived that I have chosen a section of country in which daily events transcend the feeble fancies of fiction—where incident crowds upon incident, and wild adventure and daring deeds are inevitable things.

The title of my new story will be

PATHAWAY;
OR,
THE MOUNTAIN OUTLAWS.
A TALE OF THE NORTHERN TRAPPING GROUNDS.

PATHAWAY will be published in the columns of THE NEW-YORK MERCURY, to which journal I have engaged to contribute EXCLUSIVELY for a term of years. To my numerous readers I would return my sincere thanks, and shall ever hold in grateful remembrance those who, by their partiality and favor, have contributed to my success. If we do not jog along together as heretofore, mutually pleased with each other, I trust it will not be through want of effort on my part to continue to merit their approbation. Those who have taken an interest in the "difficulties" of Nick Whiffles—a character pretty extensively known—may very possibly find in PATHAWAY a character of his name and nature, whose exploits and drolleries will not shame those of other years. In short, it is my purpose to produce a story that shall excel other productions of my pen, in the novelty of its situations, in truthfulness of delineation, intricacy of plot and rapid succession of incident.

It will be illustrated by DARLEY.

WORCESTER, May, 1859. J. H. ROBINSON.

The publishers of THE MERCURY will only add that they pay Dr. Robinson a higher price for his labors than has ever yet been paid by the newspaper Press to any American romancer, but a sense of duty to our quarter of a million readers demands his eminent services. It is our mission, by honorable competition, to excel in every department, at whatever cost, and that mission will ever be faithfully performed.

"PATHAWAY" will be commenced in THE NEW-YORK MERCURY without delay, and other novelties will follow in rapid succession.

NEW BOOKS.

THE JEALOUS HUSBAND
A STORY OF THE HEART,
BY
MRS. A. M. MAILLARD,

Author of "The Compulsory Marriage," "Zingra, the Gipsey," etc., etc.

Complete in one large volume, neatly bound in cloth, for One Dollar and Twenty-five Cents; or Two volumes, paper cover, for One Dollar.

Like the wand of an enchanter, the fascinating pages of "The Jealous Husband" throw a spell around the reader which is broken only when the last word of the last page is reached. It appeals, with irresistible force, to all who have intellects to be brushed up and hearts to be shaken. It is one of those books which make their mark upon the generation which receives them, and leave an impression which is favorably remembered. Never before have we perused a work which presented such earnest, eloquent and stirring appeals to our nobler feelings; nor one which so charmed us by the freshness, vigor, purity and gracefulness of its tone, while it led us irresistibly captive by the touching beauty and melting eloquence—so richly fraught with golden imagery—of its story. It bears upon its very face the unmistakable signs of true worth and beauty. As may be inferred from its title, it is one of those rare works which address themselves to the heart and the intellect.

READ THE FOLLOWING OPINIONS OF THE ENGLISH PRESS.

"We have just risen from the perusal of one of the most captivating novels we have ever wiled away an evening with. In introducing it to our readers, we desire to be understood that we do so from mere gratitude to its fair author, who has enabled us, in this emphatically great volume, to enjoy such a treat as rarely falls to our lot, editors though we be, and accustomed as we are to familiar intercourse with nearly all the finer issues of the Press. The great work to which we allude is styled The Jealous Husband. Its author is Mrs. A. M. Maillard, whose Zingra, the Gipsy, has already won for her the admiration of the public. The latter work, on its first appearance, created an impression; but, while it gave indications, here and there, of considerable ideality and strength, it contained but little that would lead us to expect the truly great work which we find in this, its successor. The Jealous Husband is a strong, vigorous and gorgeous story of that Great Passion which makes or unmakes the destiny of man. It is told with a power, gracefulness and purity which stamp it the work of one of the greatest of the few great masters of our day. With a solemn consciousness of the importance and responsibility of the act, we introduce it to our readers, promising that it is worthy the acquaintance even of the highest and best, and that it confers more honor upon them by appearing in their company than they, even by the most flattering receptions, could ever confer upon it."—London Daily News.

"Here is a work which stands out, amid the fictional issues of the present season, like a pure diamond in the midst of paltry paste. It is one of the most fervid and impressive narratives that has ever fallen from the press. With a power possessed by no female writer of our day, unless it be by the lamented Grace Aguilar, or the singularly gifted Ellen Pickering, its fair author strikes, on every page, for the hearts and intellects of her readers, and rarely fails to touch the first, or take the latter captive. As a picture of the vast power of the great Master Passion, it has scarcely ever been approached—certainly never excelled. What Raphael was among ordinary artists, this work is among works of fiction; and as but few ever reached the lofty platform occupied by that great artist, so we can point to but a very limited number of modern works which, for beauty, freshness, power and gorgeousness of execution, will compare with 'The Jealous Husband,' by Mrs. Annette Marie Maillard."—London Athenæum.

"The fair author of 'The Jealous Husband' has done herself and her work full justice. If, in writing this work, her object was to win a name and place among the great, she has accomplished her object. 'The Jealous Husband' is a creation which calls for and compels the admiration of all men, and one which will carry the name and fame of the writer down to its latest posterity."—London Times.

"It is once in a while the good fortune of the literary journalist to be able to point out to his readers a recent emanation which may be justly termed a literary banquet. This happens to be our happy fortune at present; and the volume to which we would call the attention of our friends is issued under the euphonious title of 'The Jealous Husband.' It is replete with all those magic pictures which we look for only in the productions of first-class minds, lit up by the fires of vigorous and awe-commanding genius. Our readers will thank us for inviting their attention to this fascinating work, which may be truly termed the most charming love-story of our time. Its fair author has, at one brave bound, achieved immortality."—London Literary Gazette.

This is the finest edition of the "Provincials" ever published in English. It contains a very eloquent life of Pascal; a fine Essay on his genius as a writer and moralist, by Villemain; a copious historical introduction, giving an account of the Port-Royal Controversy out of which the letters sprang; a Bibliographical notice of all books treating of Pascal's life and writings; and the letters in the translation of the Rev. VOLTAIRE'S LIFE OF CHARLES XII., KING OF SWEDEN, 1 vol., 12mo $1 25.

This is the first volume of such of Voltaire's Works as we think it advisable to reproduce. Besides a carefully revised translation of the Charles XII., this volume contains Lord Brougham's Life of Voltaire, the defects of which have been supplied by copious editorial notes; a narrative of Voltaire's relation to Frederick the Great, from Macaulay; an estimate of Voltaire's genius and character, by Carlyle, &c., &c. The introductory matter of this volume, if we are not mistaken, contains the best Life and Judgment of Voltaire to be found in the English language, perhaps in any language. We shall issue none of Voltaire's irreligious works. The purely historical productions, some of the poems, and the dramas of Voltaire have received universal praise and approbation. This is the first edition of Charles XII., whether French or English, in which the proper names have their correct orthography.

The "Romance of a Poor Young Man" has recently appeared in Paris, and has been hailed by both French and English critics as perhaps the most striking and admirable work of fiction that appeared in any country during the year 1858. READ THE FOLLOWING FROM G. P. R. JAMES' LAST LETTER.

BRITISH CONSULATE GENERAL, }
VENICE, Monday, April 4, 1859. }

GENTLEMEN: I have sent you off this day the two last chapters and completion of "The Cavalier," and trust they will reach you safely. Should they not do so, having kept a copy here, the loss could easily be made up. In regard to payment for "The Cavalier," I have drawn bills upon your house for the amount, all being dated March 31,—one for $866 66, another for $686 34, and one for $127, making in all $1,680, as per agreement made and signed by us on the 1st of July, 1858. I hope you will have the kindness to send me over a copy of it, as I shall like to see the work in print. In manuscript I like it well, and think that there is quite enough action in it to suit you. Yours faithfully, G. P. R. JAMES.

Mr. James' style is calm, strong, but graphic and vigorous. The books which endure and last, are the Robinson Crusoes, the Vicar of Wakefields, the novels of Sir Walter Scott and of Charles Dickens, &c., &c., which are all eminently free from the spasmodic and vicious extravagances of the age. Their strength is calm, serene and healthy, not convulsive, troubled or dyspeptic. And so it is with Mr. James' productions—which always receive warm commendations from the highest critics. He does not tear either his style or his passion to tatters—he does not rejoice in extravagances of diction, or monstrosities of character. He interests by the simple and natural portraiture of exciting scenes, and heroic and beautiful personages. He sympathises not with vice and impurity, but with all that is noble, lovely and of good repute. And his works, therefore, without unpleasantly intruding any moral upon the reader, teach lessons of endurance, faith, purity, and heroic forgetfulness of self. For these reasons—for the healthy and vigorous and heroic spirit which breathes alike in his style and his subjects, the works of Mr. James occupy a place in the libraries of every land where the English language is spoken, by the side of those of Scott and of Dickens; and their circulation in the homes of the people has been by the hundreds of thousands.

According to agreement, Mr. James reserves the right to himself of printing and publishing this work in any or all parts of Europe.

CHAMBERS'
ENCYCLOPÆDIA:
A DICTIONARY OF UNIVERSAL KNOWLEDGE FOR THE PEOPLE,
ON THE BASIS OF THE LATEST EDITION OF THE GERMAN CONVERSATIONS-LEXICON.

Illustrated with Maps and numerous Wood Engravings.

In accordance with their original project to supply the American public promptly, conveniently, and cheaply, with all the recent great Dictionaries of General Knowledge in the languages each in its proper class or specialty, from the most condensed technical definer to the most comprehensive thesaurus of exhaustive treatises—an important plan of which their Iconographic Encyclopædia and New American Cyclopædia are but parts—D. APPLETON & CO. have the satisfaction to announce that they will reprint regularly, with all the maps and illustrations complete, the new and popular Encyclopædia of the Messrs. Chambers, without alteration, from the London and Edinburgh edition.

In order to meet the wants of every class, including those of the humblest means, and to furnish a Dictionary of Knowledge in a form procurable even by the daily laborer, D. Appleton & Co. will publish Chambers' Encyclopædia in Weekly Sheets, royal 8vo., price 3 cents each; and in Monthly Parts, price 15 cents each, until the whole is completed; it being confidently expected that the work will be comprised in about 320 Numbers or 80 Monthly Parts; forming six or seven volumes—on a much more limited scale than the New American Cyclopædia (fifteen volumes,) but of course proportionally cheaper. In fact, this will be the cheapest Encyclopædia ever published, and one of the most comprehensive in its kind; it will be expressly a Dictionary, in one Alphabet, as distinguished on the one hand from a cluster of lengthy treatises, and on the other from a combination of dictionaries of special branches of knowledge. It will, at the same time, be sufficiently full and fresh in the usual branches of Geography, Biography, Natural History, and the Sciences. Chambers' Encyclopædia will bear nearly the same relation to the New American Cyclopædia that that contemporaneous work holds to the Encyclopædia Britannica, each having its own claims, and its own public, and filling its own place in the field of popular information, without interfering with either of its companions. Chambers' Encyclopædia is the crowning contribution of its Editors to Cheap Literature—a work designed, in a special manner, equally in its construction and its price.

THE TIN TRUMPET;
OR,
HEADS AND TAILS FOR THE WISE AND WAGGISH.
A new American Edition, with Alterations and Additions. 1 vol., 12mo. $1 25

The "TIN TRUMPET," by the late Paul Chatfield, M. D., edited by Jefferson Sanders, Esq., was first published in London in the year 1836, was immediately republished in this country, but owing to the fact that much of its matter was of purely English, local and temporary interest, referring to the political and religious squabbles of the times, the success of the work here was but temporary, and it has long been entirely out of print. It contained, however, a sufficient quantity of wit and wisdom, original and selected, to make its resuscitation at this time appear desirable. The American Editor to whom was intrusted the office of preparing it for republication, has thought fit, while pruning the original of all that appeared superannuated and of no present and lasting interest, to embody with what remained such selections from his Common-Place Book, as appeared to him to come legitimately within the design of the author. The original plan of the book—an alphabetically-arranged collection of the wit and wisdom of many of the best writers, ancient and modern—has not been changed. Such as it now is, the book is committed to the American public, with the belief that while it will become a mine of easy quotations to many of our ready writers, it will serve yet more to while away pleasantly and not unprofitably a Summer afternoon or Winter evening to the general reader.

In THE TIN TRUMPET, the melancholy Jaques and the motley Touchstone go hand in hand together. "Solid Chunks of Wisdom" are garni with the wildest flowers of wit—making it a book to be gravely consulted for instruction, or trippingly turned over for entertainment, with equal reason. Abounding in the food of "sweet and bitter fancy," it is a volume that, nibble at it as often as you may, there will still be many a wholesome and agreeable morsel left. You may read it through in a day, but it will last your thoughtfulness a lifetime.

VOLCANIC REPEATING FIREARMS.
THE NEW-HAVEN ARMS COMPANY

Have recently obtained the entire control of the above arms, and are now manufacturing them in the most perfect manner, and are prepared to furnish the trade on favorable terms.

THE RAPIDITY OF EXECUTION of this arm places it beyond all competition. The thirty-shooter can be loaded and fired in less than one minute—a quickness and force of execution which is as much superior to the best revolvers as they are to the old muzzle-loading single shooters.

THE AMMUNITION IS WATER-PROOF, hence it can be used in any weather, or loaded and hung up for months, or laid under water, and then fired with certainty.

ITS SAFETY FROM ACCIDENTAL DISCHARGE is a great consideration in its favor; for while the magazine (a tube running the whole length of the barrel) may be filled with balls, and thus the gun, in fact, be loaded from breech to muzzle, it is yet impossible, from any carelessness in handling, to discharge it.

ITS CONSTRUCTION is simple and its workmanship most perfect, hence it is not easily got out of repair.

ITS PROPORTIONS are light, elegant, and compact, and the barrels are all rifled with great exactness. It requires no cap nor priming, no bullet mould nor powder flask. The powder and cap is contained in a loaded "Minie" ball of the best form and proportions, and is as sure as the best percussion caps.

IT SHOOTS WITH ACCURACY AND GREATER FORCE than any other arm can with double the powder used in this. Directions for use accompany each arm. Balls are packed in tin cases, 200 each.

MEDICAL.

DR. J. BOVEE DODS WOULD INFORM his friends throughout the United States and British Provinces, that he has taken a suite of rooms, handsomely furnished, and opened a Medical Office, at NOS. 649 AND 651 BROADWAY, New-York, and is now ready to examine patients and prescribe vegetable remedies, in connection with his IMPERIAL WINE BITTERS, for those various chronic diseases considered by physicians as incurable.

Dr. DODS' immense and well-known success in restoring the sick to health, he owes in a great measure to the faculty he possesses of accurately ascertaining the nature of the disease and its curability. If he cannot cure, he will not take the case, and thus save the patient the expense of trying an experiment. His mode of practice is new and decidedly efficacious.

His charge for an examination and prescription is $10, giving the patient directions how to treat his own case for at least one month. After this, each visit to his office, for examination, prescription or advice, will be only $1, till cured.

Being now permanently located, let the afflicted of both sexes give him a call. Office hours from 12 to 6 o'clock P. M.

DR. J. BOVEE DODS'
IMPERIAL
BITTERS.

These Bitters, as an alterative, tonic, strengthening and curative agent, are superior to any other remedy ever yet offered to the world. They renovate and enrich the blood, cure consumption, palpitation of heart, and are excellent for an inactive liver and a weak stomach. In female complaints they cannot be surpassed, and are delicious to the taste. They not only cure, but prevent disease. All well persons should take them in Summer months, so as to retain their health, particularly in Southern climates, where fevers rage.

These WINE BITTERS, destined to become the wonder of the age, are manufactured by Dr. DODS only, and put up in beautiful quart bottles, with his name blown in the glass,

And are for sale by CHARLES WIDDIFIELD, Nos. 649 and 651 Broadway, N. Y., sole proprietor.

☞ Price $1 50 per single bottle. A liberal discount made to druggists. All orders from a distance promptly supplied.

PERUVIAN SYRUP.—THIS PREPARATION OF IRON differs from all others, being a protected solution of the Protoxide, a combination never before obtained in a permanent form. It is widely known in Boston and New-England, where it is prescribed by the most prominent physicians, and is extensively used there by the most intelligent and respectable citizens. For Debility from any cause, Dyspepsia, and the various diseases arising from a deteriorated state of the blood, it has been found extremely efficacious. Pamphlets, giving a full description of the remedy, and the remarkable cures it has effected, may be obtained of the agents.

We subjoin an article from the Boston Daily Advertiser, of June, 1858:

"PERUVIAN SYRUP.—We feel justified in calling attention to this medicine, after carefully weighing the evidence of its beneficent qualities. The value of iron to the system is well known; but it has heretofore been deemed impossible to obtain its protoxide in solution in such a manner as to be of permanent value. We have now, however, the testimony of Dr. Hayes our State Assayer, that a method of combination has been discovered which obviates this difficulty, and that this preparation of the protoxide of iron may replace all the existing combinations of the Materia Medica. It has already received the approbation of several physicians of high standing, while the proprietors have many testimonials from respectable private citizens who have experienced its virtues. We believe that it is very efficacious for the cure of a variety of diseases to which the human race is prone."

DR. MAGNIN'S LUCINA CORDIAL OR ELIXIR OF LOVE.—This delightful and positive invigorant of the human system is fast superseding all other remedies; in fact, when its virtues become fully known, it will be the only remedy in use. Its action on the nervous system and reproductive organs is most extraordinary, allaying all over-excitement, and infusing into the nervous organization that degree of tension which is requisite to give the human system the enjoyment of its full powers, both mentally and physically. As an appetizer it is equally remarkable; assimilated with the gastric juices of the stomach, it assists them in more readily dissolving all nutritious substances, and converting them into pure and wholesome blood; thus the digestion is improved, and the whole framework of man moves on in a more vigorous and harmonious manner thereby. Price $3 per bottle, or two bottles for $5. Principal office No. 208 Fulton-st., New-York.
DR. MAGNIN.

HUNDREDS OF THE UNFORTUNATE are disappointed of a cure by not calling on DR. HUNTER at first, the Hunterian Dispensary, No. 3 Division-st., New-York City. Established in 1834, for the Preservation of Human Life. PRIVATE CONSULTATIONS.—Dr. HUNTER has for thirty years confined his attention to diseases of a certain class, in which he has treated not less than fifty thousand cases, without an instance of failure. It is $1 a vial, and cannot be obtained genuine anywhere but at the old office, No. 3 Division-st. Book for nothing, that treats of the evil effects of early abuse and indulgence, is embellished with elaborate colored engravings, portraying every feature and phase of disease, exposes the fallacy of the ordinary modes adopted for the cure of local as well as hereditary maladies, and gives the only safe and infallible remedy for expunging every trace of the virus from the system.

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

AN OLD ACQUAINTANCE IN A NEW DRESS.—The Steamer C. Vanderbilt, it will be remembered, was last Winter "lost" on Fisher's Island, during a heavy snow-storm, and the incidents connected with the escape of her passengers were for some time the theme of many thrilling bulletins. After being several times announced as "broken up" and a "total loss," the perservering agent of the Company went quietly to work, and by great effort, and a heavy outlay in money, got her afloat once more, and she was towed to the City and hauled upon the railway at Hunter's Point. Here she was thoroughly inspected, and, though found to be considerably damaged, she was not so much so as to prevent them from making her a good and a serviceable boat. She has been entirely rebuilt from her keelsons; her bottom frame was supplied with new timbers, and she was planked up to her bends, caulked and coppered. Hog frames were put in, the decks newly painted, and the state-room saloon, most of which was washed away, is enterly new, the original arrangement only being preserved, with the addition of some extra rooms and other accommodations. The ship-carpenter's work was done by JOHN ENGLIS, and the joiner's work by ISAAC GREVES, the whole having been under the supervision of JACOB H. VANDERBILT, at an outlay of some eighty thousand dollars. In short, the C. Vanderbilt, which was always a favorite on the Sound, takes her place once more on the old route, with her youth renewed, and as strong as she was when first launched. She has a new pair of boilers, made by J. MURPHY & Co., and her engines have been put in perfect order. Much of her furniture is new, and the upholstering being entirely renovated gives to her saloons and staterooms an appearance of entire newness. She is to be commanded by Captain D. B. [illegible], formerly pilot of the Plymouth Rock, who is considered one of the most capable pilots on the Sound. Her other officers are [illegible], Clerk; JOHN G. [illegible], Steward; and JOHN L. [illegible], Engineer. The Vanderbilt leaves on her first trip on Monday, May 30, at 5 o'clock P. M., from Pier No. 2 North River. She will, no doubt, regain the prestige which she has heretofore enjoyed.

THE COLUMBIA-STREET MYSTERY.—THOMAS [illegible], a German shoemaker, was arrested yesterday on suspicion of having murdered his wife and thrown her down the vault, rear of No. 125 Columbia-street, where a portion of the mutilated remains of a woman were found a week ago. Fortunately for [illegible], his own wife turned up alive, a bad beating at his hands being the extent of her injuries. Instead of being confined in a murderer's cell, the suspected shoemaker was let go free, on giving bail to answer for assaulting his wife. The arrest of [illegible] was curiously brought about. He formerly worked in Robinson-street, and about a year ago was compelled to marry a young Irish girl for having been too intimate with her, but did not live happily with her. Becoming enraged at her a few days ago, he seized a chair, knocked her to the floor, and ran away, thinking that he had killed her. He applied for work at No. 22 West Broadway, and through his insisting on changing his clothes, and muttering in his sleep, about killing his wife, he was arrested. The wife of the Philadelphian, previously reported as having eloped with a Polander and fled to this City, and who was stated to be missing, made her appearance yesterday at the Eleventh Ward Station-house. The husband of the woman also made his appearance, and despite the alleged elopement, a reconciliation was soon effected. Elizabeth McKinney, a young woman about twenty years old, who lived with her mother in Essex-street, is the only female known to be missing in the Eleventh Ward. She had been seduced and was enciente. Her mother fears that her seducer may have murdered her; and that the remains found in the vault in Columbia-street may be hers.

AN ELOPEMENT AND ITS CONSEQUENCES.—On the 21st of April a German married woman named PHILOPENA SCHNIDER, aged 35, residing at No. 85 Chrystie-street, (third floor,) eloped with a young German named CHARLES BECHT alias C. RICHE. The unfortunate woman took with her three children, aged respectively 10, 6 and 4 years, and also $300 of her husband's money, acquired by the savings of three years on a salary of $8 per week. The Wednesday night following the 27th inst., an attempt was made to fire the premises of the husband, Mr. SCHNIDER, by pouring alcohol and camphene under the door and then firing it; but a daughter of SCHNIDER's waking up, jumped out of bed and extinguished the fire by pouring on the flames the contents of a wash-tub that stood near the door. No tidings were heard of the guilty woman. On Thursday one of the little boys who accompanied the woman went to a neighbor's of the husband's and said his mother had returned and was at a German hotel, at No. 32 William-street. Detectives JOHN H. SMITH and SAMPSON were informed of the fact, arrested her and took her to the Police headquarters. The injured husband was sent for, when a most affecting scene ensued, which ended by SCHNIDER forgiving the woman, and they returned home together. The woman had only $96 15 left, and said her paramour abused her horribly, and ran away from her at Montrose, Va.

RE-DISTRICTING THE CITY.—It is claimed that the Registry Law, passed at the late session of the Legislature, will make it necessary to re-district the City. Some of the districts, as limited at present, contain so large a number of voters that it is feared all would not be able to record their names in the time required by law. To obviate this difficulty it is proposed to diminish the size of the largest districts—those, for instance, which contain between seven and eight hundred voters—so that the average number shall not exceed five hundred at most. The population has increased so rapidly in the upper Wards that, it is claimed, this will be especially necessary in that section of the City. The lower Wards will probably remain as they are. The Joint Committee of the Common Council, having this matter in charge, met yesterday afternoon and adjourned, after taking steps preliminary to proceeding with the work.

SUICIDE OF AN EX-NOTARY OF PARIS.—LOUIS HUBERT, a Frenchman, who as a notarie in Paris during the revolution of 1848 had the signing of death-warrants, committed suicide on Thursday evening, at No. 74 West Broadway, by taking arsenic. At an inquisition held yesterday on the body, it appeared in addition to the fact already stated, that the deceased came to this country about three years ago, and that he had lived mainly upon the contributions of his former friends in Paris. Latterly these contributions fell off and he became very despondent in consequence. At the time of his death he was living with a man whose death warrant he had signed, but was so fortunate as to escape. He was nearly fifty years old and had no family. Aside from his pecuniary embarrassments no cause is assigned for his committing suicide.

COMMISSIONERS OF HEALTH.—The Commissioners met yesterday noon. President CORNELL, to whom was referred the slaughter-house No. 174 East Twenty-eighth-street, which had been complained of as a nuisance, reported that he had visited the premises and directed the necessary measures to be taken to abate it. CHARLES DISCH petitioned to be appointed temporary Health Warden in the Twentieth Ward. Referred to the Mayor. JOHN WHITE, No. 222 Ninth-street, called attention to a nuisance in that neighborhood, and DE WITT & BROS. to one existing in the rear of the premises Nos. 107 and 109 John-street. They were referred to the Health Wardens of the respective localities for correction.

AN INSANE MAN ATTEMPTS TO MURDER HIS WIFE.—Two Policemen of the Sixth Precinct, while returning to their homes up town at 6 o'clock Thursday morning, heard cries of "Murder" proceeding from a house at No. 123 East Thirty-first-street. They rushed into the house and found JOHN TRACY about to plunge a knife into the bosom of his wife. The officers struck the man down with their clubs and secured him. He was afterwards taken to the Lunatic Asylum as it was found he was insane. In the struggle one of the hands of Mrs. TRACY was nearly cut off.

AN APPLE WOMAN DROWNED.—A woman whose name is unknown, who has been in the habit of selling apples and candies about the wharves, yesterday lay down on the string-piece of one of the East River Piers, and, falling asleep, fell into the water and was drowned. The body was recovered, and an inquest held by Coroner JACKMAN, which resulted in a verdict in accordance with the above facts.

FALL FROM A THIRD-STORY WINDOW.—JOHN [illegible], a boy 6 years old, yesterday fell out of a third-story window of his parents' residence, No. 300 West Eighteenth-street, sustaining a fracture of the skull, which will probably prove fatal.

AN UNKNOWN WOMAN DROWNED.—An unknown woman, at a late hour on Thursday evening, fell into the dock at the foot of Montgomery-street, and was drowned before assistance could be extended to her. The body was recovered, and an inquest will be held to-day.

FIRE IN THIRD-AVENUE.—The alarm in the First District at 3½ o'clock P. M., yesterday, was caused by a fire in the pattern-shop of the Jackson Iron Railing Company, on the corner of Third-avenue and Thirty-fifth-street. Damage about $2,500; no insurance.

FIRE IN LAURENS-STREET.—Several small children were playing in a room on the upper portion of the premises No. 34 Laurens-street, at 7 o'clock last evening, when they accidentally set fire to a bed. A policeman extinguished the flames. Damage trifling.

PARADE OF THE SEVENTY-FIRST REGIMENT.—The above Regiment (about 400 muskets) will go over to Camp Washington—their old camp ground—on Staten Island, on Monday next, by the 9 o'clock boat, for the purpose of parading and having a sham fight.

The Francis Skiddy will lie at Pier No. 2 North River, until the hour of sailing, and admission will be by tickets furnished by the military authorities. There will be three bands on board, Capt. McMAHON's Artillery Company will fire salutes on the voyage down the Bay. There will be a parting address by Col. RYAN, and then Mr. O'BRIEN will bid farewell to his countrymen and friends.

Police Reports.

A DANCE HOUSE SURPRISED.—The Police of the Fifth Ward, at one o'clock yesterday morning, paid a surprise visit to a negro dance house, at No. 57 Worth-street, and arrested twenty-two men and eighteen females, of all ages and shades of color. John Sewell, the proprietor, was absent, and escaped arrest. His wife, who presided in his absence, was, however, among the arrested ones. The prisoners were taken yesterday before Justice WELSH, and with one exception, were all discharged, there being no evidence of improper conduct on their part.

STEALING A WATCH.—Conrad Reischmerder, living in Henry-street, on Friday evening stopped to talk with one Susan Williams, and afterwards discovered that he had lost his gold watch and chain. Susan was arrested on charge of having stolen the watch and appendage, and committed for trial by Justice STEERS.

BROOKLYN INTELLIGENCE.

THE PARK COMMISSIONERS.—An act passed the last Legislature appointing certain gentlemen therein named as a Board of Commissioners, with certain powers as to selecting public parks in Kings County. The Commissioners organized on the first Monday in May, and appointed sub-committees to make reports. At a meeting held the present week no regular report was made, but there was a general interchange of views, from which we gather that, in the Western Section four park sites are seriously contemplated: One on the meadows in Gowanus, between 6th and 9th streets and 3d and 4th avenues; Dasby's Patch in the Tenth Ward, facetiously called Douglas' Park sometimes; the vacant lots on the Heights and a parade-ground at East New-York for the military. This latter place contains thirty acres and can be purchased at a reasonable price, and the purchasing of it for military purposes has been a favorite scheme with Major-General DURYEA for several years past, and meets with little or no opposition. The ground is a level plain and has been used as a muster-field from before the Revolution till now. A Public Garden at Greenpoint and two Parks for the Eastern District, are all that are under consideration at the present time for that part of the city.

PICKPOCKETS ARRESTED.—Two female pickpockets stopped an elderly woman, named CURTIS, on Nassau, near Washington-street, yesterday, between 2 and 3 o'clock P. M., and robbed her of a portmonnaie containing $6 in bills and took a pair of gold spectacles from her face. The girls immediately attempted to escape to New-York, where they belong, but the Police were promptly informed of the robbery, and soon after the thieves were captured in the Second Precinct. They were taken to the Station-house, where, upon the person of one who calls herself JANE KENNEDAY, the money was found, but not the spectacles or portmonnaie. The other girl gave her name as ADELIA STEVENSON. They will be tried before Justice CORNWELL this morning.

THEY PROPOSE TO ENFORCE THE ORDINANCES.—The new Corporation Counsellor, ALEXANDER McCLUE, is determined that another effort shall be made to enforce the city ordinances, and, in consonance with this determination, the Deputy Superintendent of Police has issued the following order to the respective Police Captains: "SIR: You will cause notice to be served on all parties in your Precinct violating the city ordinances in relation to obstructing the streets and sidewalks, or placing any projections from the fronts of their buildings, other than allowed by the ordinances; to have the same removed, and, if not removed within a reasonable time, you will report the same to this office."

BURGLARIES.—At about 3 o'clock yesterday morning, a thief entered the house of Mr. BARTON, on Hampden-street, near Myrtle-avenue, and carried off money and silver ware to the value of $75 or more. The impudent rascal entered the bedroom of Mr. BARTON, and stole a portion of the money from his pants. Mrs. B. watched the proceedings with considerable interest, but was afraid to awake her husband for fear he might get killed. The thief having obtained all he wanted, left unmolested. The house of S. H. MOORE, adjoining, was robbed on Wednesday of property valued at $35.

STUBBED HIS TOE.—A respectable gentleman named JAMES L. WILSON, residing in Lorimer-street, some months ago stubbed his toe against a City plank, laid over a City hole, and a good-natured Jury in the City Court yesterday awarded him $750 damages.

BASE BALL.—A match took place at Bedford, on Thursday, between the Pastime Base Ball Club, of Brooklyn, and the Ocean Club, of New-Utrecht. The result was: Runs—Pastime, 22; Ocean Club, 26. Nearly five thousand people witnessed the game.

ST. JAMES' SCHOOLS.—The pupils of this school, under the charge of the Christian Brothers, underwent a thorough and satisfactory examination this week, which was concluded by public exercises at the Athenæum on Thursday evening.

KINGS COUNTY COURT OF SESSIONS—BEFORE THE HON. S. D. MORRIS, COUNTY JUDGE, AND JUSTICES EMMONS AND HOYT.—The criminal business of this Court was continued yesterday. Michael Dwyer, indicted for manslaughter in killing Thomas Shields, alias Mahan, with a pitchfork, in O'Donnell's stable, on Baltic-street, near Smith-street, was found guilty of manslaughter in the fourth degree, and sentenced to six months' imprisonment in the Penitentiary. The deceased was a drinking and quarrelsome man, while the prisoner was shown to be a quiet and industrious person, and was engaged at his legitimate business when the deceased made an unprovoked attack upon him. Henry T. Haskell, indicted for forgery in the second degree, was convicted of forgery in the third degree, and sentenced to two years' imprisonment in the State Prison at Sing Sing. James Donohoe was convicted of a felonious assault. Sentence suspended. Christian Reuter, indicted for assault and battery with intent to do bodily harm, was convicted of simple assault and battery. Owing to extenuating circumstances in the case, sentence was suspended. The Court adjourned till 10 o'clock this morning.

CITY COURT—BEFORE HON. E. D. CULVER, CITY JUDGE, AND A JURY.—Thomas Wildes vs. The City of Brooklyn.—This is an action brought to recover damages for injuries sustained through the negligence of the agents of the City. The complaint sets forth specifically that Mr. WILDES was riding through First-street, in the Eastern District, on the night of the 13th of November, 1858, and at the foot of South Eighth-street he was capsized into a hole made by the Corporation or agents, five feet deep, and his horse falling upon him he received serious and permanent injuries for which he asks the sum of $10,000, or any less sum a jury may see fit to award him. Case still on. For plaintiff, E. T. WOOD and Ex-Attorney General CUSHING; for defence, Corporation Counsellor, assisted by J. M. VAN COTT, Esq.

SUPREME COURT.—A Special Term of the Supreme Court will be held at the City Hall on the 30th inst.

American Mechanism.

The inventive genius of our countrymen has supplied the world with almost every labor-saving machine and artistic mechanical contrivance which is of sufficient importance to be ranked as a marked feature of the age's progress; and it is a noticeable fact that while the inventive spirit of the Old World for the most part exhausts itself in the contriving of new articles of ornament, luxury and scientific inutilities, that of the New is almost exclusively devoted to the cause of practical utility. The European artizan will give his time and talent to the construction of a new toy, while the American will study out some combination of mechanical principles for the more expeditious shelling of corn, or some other purpose. Among the American machines which have the most world-wide use and reputation are FAIRBANKS' Platform Scales.

It is now about thirty years since THADDEUS FAIRBANKS, one of the senior partners of the present firm of FAIRBANKS & Co., made and patented the first platform scale, and the business of the house, in scales alone, has now reached the vast amount of nearly $1,000,000 annually. The various descriptions of their platform scales are comprised in every size and form, from the mammoth contrivance of a canal lock scale, capable of weighing 500 tons, to the delicate balance for purposes of chemical analysis, in which the weight of a thousandth part of a grain is marked by a sensible deflection. The accuracy of their scales has established uniform weights all over the country—a national benefit—and they have become the "legalized standard."

Such is the absolute perfection and truthfulness to which the mechanism of these scales has been brought, that the elasticity of metals of which it is constructed, and their liability to yield under heavy strains, have been entirely counteracted, so that the indications are precisely alike, no matter on what part of the platform the weight is placed.

But these Scales have not alone vindicated and established their superiority all over America, for they have conquered their way into Europe and Asia. Messrs. FAIRBANKS & Co. manufacture them adapted to the standard of all civilized nations—even of China, to which country they ship large numbers. They manufacture them to the standard of all European nations, and they are in general use over that continent.

A member of the firm is in the City this season for the purpose of making arrangements for a great enlargement of their trade here. He has already taken a building at No. 93 Camp-street, where he will open an extensive scale warehouse, in which no less than one hundred modifications of Fairbanks' Scales will be offered for sale.—New-Orleans Crescent.

KNOWN EFFECT.—When pain or inflammation is present in a human body, and BRANDRETH'S PILLS are used, they at once seize upon the humors which are the occasion of the pain or inflammation, and remove them from the body. And they cannot injure, because their power is only upon and over those humors and impurities which are unhealthy (wants life), and whose presence in a part causes the pain and burning heat. So in sore throat, croup, colds, coughs, rheumatism, pain in the side and pleurisy, which are all cured by from one to three dozen of these pills, whole power is only exerted to REMOVE IMPURITIES FROM THE BLOOD. The rightly-directed will use them and be cured. Sold at DR. BRANDRETH'S Office, No. 294 Canal-street; BURNTON'S, No. 296 Bowery, and by all Druggists. Price 25 cents a box.

FRIDAY, May 27—P. M.

The firmness on the Stock Exchange noticed for some days past appeared to increase quite materially to-day, particularly on the New-York Central and Western shares. The additional advance in Central is 1 ℘ cent., and in Illinois Central, at one time, 4 ℘ cent. on yesterday's sales. The former left off 74 ℘ cent. sales. The latter, after selling up to 59½ ℘ cent., closed 57½, as against 53½@55 yesterday. The Bonds of the Company were 1 ℘ cent. higher. In Rock Island a considerable eagerness was shown at the early Board to put out short options at 61 ℘ cent., and some cash bargains were done at 62@62½, and soon after the adjournment 63@63⅛ ℘ cent. was paid in the Street. In the afternoon the price fell back to 62 ℘ cent. cash, and 61 seller 10 days. There was a rise of 1½ ℘ cent. in Michigan Central, and ½@¾ ℘ cent. in Galena. Toledo went up to 28½@¾ ℘ cent. Reading was also better, and Pacific and Panama firm at the close at yesterday's prices. There was less done than usual in State Stocks. Missouris steady at 83¾@84; Virginias, 96½. In United States 5s a small sale this afternoon at 103¾ for the coupon bonds, and 105 for the registered stock. The general market left off firm, except in Erie Shares and Bonds, which continue to show great weakness.

Mr. RICHARD COBDEN, the distinguished member of the English Parliament, now about closing his visit to this country, was in the Stock Exchange this forenoon for half an hour, during the early session of the Brokers.

In the Money Market, to-day, we hear of sales of sixty-day acceptances, very choice names, at 6 ℘ cent. A line of prime four-months' bills was held at 6½ ℘ cent., 7 ℘ cent. being refused. At Bank the rate is pretty uniform at 7 ℘ cent. the exceptions being in favor of sixty-day bills of prime credit. Demand loans are easy at 5 ℘ cent. on first-class stocks, and 6 ℘ cent. on pledge of bills receivable. The receipts of Specie from the near cities and from the West and South continue liberal, both by express and through drafts on the Sub-Treasury. The export engagements for the Arago and the other steamers sailing to-morrow amount, as far as reported, to about $1,-[illegible], subject to be increased by sundry small shipments of which we have not the particulars. The banking houses in the Foreign business are generally pleased with the tenor of their letters by the Asia yesterday, and the news, altogether, is calculated to moderate the shipments of Specie next week. The Exchange on London, to-day, is 110@110¼ ℘ cent., most of the business done at 110 ℘ cent. net and 110 less a sixteenth to the broker, at sixty days, and 110½@110⅝ short sight. At the same time, several of the standard drawers are declining less than 110¼ on London at sixty days, construing the fall of interest in London as in favor of sixty-day bills by comparison with short sight. The Sub-Treasury received for Customs $98,000, and from other sources $103,823. The disbursements are $416,847, reducing the balance to $4,753,522.

The Merchants' Bank to-day declared the usual half-yearly dividend of 3½ ℘ cent. payable 1st June. The interior of the banking-room of this old and well-known establishment has just undergone an effective improvement in the way of light and ornament. And a similar improvement with the addition of a new room for the uncurrent money department, has been made by the Metropolitan Bank.

The Howard Insurance Company have declared a dividend of 15 ℘ cent., payable 6th June.

Miscellaneous.

The schr. William M. Godwin (previously reported) sailed from Hog Island April 23, with a cargo of pine wood, bound to New-York, and while at anchor parted chains, and to avoid going ashore, was compelled to go to sea. After running before a heavy S.S.W. gale for about an hour, from some unexplained cause the rudder suddenly broke off. After lying in the trough of the sea for some time, she leaked so badly that the crew were compelled to abandon her; was then about 100 miles east of Cape May.

The ship Victoria, arrived yesterday from London, brought 102 passengers, and reports, 5th inst., Henry Cleveland (seaman, of New-York) fell overboard and was lost.
